Exports Off, Canal Pays 92,000 Children MacManus' Mutton Chop And Some Swell Language

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1921.

Our exports to Europe continue to drop off, while our imports increase. In September exports were $31,000,000 less than in August, imports up $4,000,000. That isn't good business. On the other hand, the Fan-American Canal announces a profit for the fourth consecutive year. It isn't a bad thing for Uncle Sam to spend some of his money improving his own farm, which is the United States and what land it owns.

Ninety-two thousand buffalo fish have been set free in the Mississippi River. That's good constructive news. These fish are the sons and daughters of eight adult buffalo fish. A lot of others didn't live through infancy. If eight adult buffalo fish provide 92,000 for planting in one season, how many would 98,000 provide in ten years if all the children did well?

Mr. Bartch, life insurance expert of Omaha, tells you that human life has grown longer by ten years in the last half century. Two or three hundred years from now, with consumption conquered by good food, and some other enemies put down, average life should be about one hundred. Men are learning how to live.

In Detroit yesterday Mr. MacManus, who helps business, gave a luncheon to a young journalist. Detroit success was there and every man saw in front of him an English mutton chop, four inches thick. Nine out of ten left all of the chop; everybody left more than half of it. Men have learned that they can't eat heavily and work afterwards. That means longer life, better work.

Language is important and wise choice of adjectives helps advertising, which helps business. You may read far, wide, deep and not find a line exactly like one contained in the announcement of a new Chicago theatre:

"THOUGH MAMMOTH AND PALATIAL, THE CHICAGO THEATRE IS, IN EVERY SENSE, COZY AND HOMEY."

They pulled no line like that when they opened the Coliseum at Rome, the temple on the hill at Athens or the Taj Mahal.

Judge Gary, head of the big steel company, said: "There never were more opportunities than now. One has only to look."

When a man is half unconscious you can easily remove his valuables to your own safekeeping. Prosperity is a little faint now, and this is the opportunity to transfer something from prosperity's back to your own.

The wrong kind of a man goes to pieces when times are bad; the right kind knows there is something worth saving in every smashup. What human beings need is something to shake them up and make them think.

Those that know how to think will come out of this better off than before. The others, as usual, will plod along.

Another lady has written a book on "How to Keep Your Husband." There is no rule worth while except one—"flatter him." And that doesn't always work. He goes around looking for new kinds of flatterers if he happens to be a fool. Marriage is an education in civilization. It must work, slowly, like all education. Men are not fit for it yet, and won't be for one thousand or ten thousand years. The reasons for their foolishness could be told, but it would take too long. Women spoil them, for one thing; let them feel too sure.

At the publicity department of the Eastern Massachusetts the following brief statement was given out: "The crash was a bad one but in no way attributable to the use of one-man cars.

"With the facts as they were the accident would have happened if there had been two men on each car instead of one.

It was explained that there was some misunderstanding as to where the two cars which figured in the collision were to take the turnout. Responsibility has not yet been placed.

As it began rounding the curve near Morse's Corner, which is between switches, Hazzard saw Dunn's car coming toward him at a rapid rate of speed.

He attempted to check the speed of

CASHIER IS ROBBED AT GUN POINT

Bold Thief Stages Lone Hold-up in Summer Street Eating House

Frederick Marshall, night clerk at Vail's Lunchroom, No. 159 Summer street, was checking up the night's receipts early today when a tall man, wearing a gray mackinaw and a gray cap pulled well down over his eyes, entered.

Instead of asking food the newcomer drew a revolver and thrust it into the pit of Marshall's stomach with the command:

"Throw up your hands and keep your mouth shut."

Marshall obeyed.

Leaving him standing, the robber turned to the cash register and took $65 in bills and silver.

While he was at work on the register Marshall made a move toward the robber.

The gunman noted this instantly however and swung the muzzle of the revolver back again upon Marshall.

"You move again," the thief told the clerk, "and I'll put so much lead in you you won't be able to carry it to church for your funeral."

After that there was quiet in the lunchroom except for the sputter and sizzle of eggs which the cook was frying in the rear, all unconscious of what was going on in the front room.

After taking the money the holdup man backed to the door and with a parting injunction to Marshall to "Keep your fool mouth shut about this," disappeared.

OFFICER IS 'HELD' IN BRIBE CASE

Police Investigate Story That Court Official Accepted Funds to "Fix" Jury

Daniel Thompson, a court officer in the Seventh Civil Session here, was "detained" by the police of Station 2 today pending investigation of a charge that he solicited and accepted a $200 bribe on the promise of influencing a jury.

Police stated that a formal charge would be made against him when they had completed their inquiry.

Judge Fox, presiding at the trial which, it is alleged, the court officer offered to influence, took the case away from the jury this morning after a conference between attorneys when Thompson's detention became known.

Thompson was taken by the police as a result of the story of Harris Proovo of Tremont street, an interested party in the civil suit. Proovo went to Captain Perley C. Kneeland of Station 2 and said Thompson had approached him with an offer to "get a verdict ranging from $8,000 to $4,200 for him, in consideration of $200."

Captain Kneeland assigned Special Officers Manning and Brosnahan to the case and laid plans to trap the court officer.

Proovo drew $200 in $50 bills from a bank, gave Captain Kneeland the money, and then notified Thompson that he was ready to "come through," according to the police.

Thompson and Proovo were to meet in the main postoffice, according to the story, and Manning and Brosnahan watched the meeting from hiding.

They actually saw the money passed, the police say, and Thompson was immediately taken into custody.

When he was searched at the station the money could not be found, at first until a newspaper in his pocket was shaken out and bills fell to the floor.

The case was one in which Proovo sued Henry F. Morrison to recover on two notes, one for $4,000 and one for $1,000. Peter Glynn and A. A. Silton appeared for Proovo and Martin White for the defendant.

Thompson is fifty-five years old, and a former Boston policeman. He was appointed a reserve officer in 1896, and assigned to Division 16. He was appointed a regular patrolman in 1898. That same year he was commended by the Board of Police for rescuing a child from a burning building.

COMMONS WILL TAKE VOTE ON IRISH PEACE

Lloyd George Sets Next Monday Aside to Act on Unionists' Motion

London, Oct. 27.—Lloyd George today proposed to the House of Commons that it set aside next Monday for a discussion on the motion of Unionist members of Parliament condemning the present negotiations with representatives of the Sinn Fein. He said he hoped there would be a vote on the question.

Lloyd George, in making the proposal, declared:

"No government can conduct negotiations of that kind without knowing that it has the support of the House of Commons, from which it derives its authority."

Just before he made the proposal, he was asked whether the Irish conference was still proceeding, to which he replied in the affirmative.

He introduced his proposal with this statement:

"As it is evident that there is a section of the members of the house who have serious misgivings regarding the conference which now is proceeding between representatives of His Majesty's Government and representatives of Sinn Fein members from Ireland, I think it is essential that we should know where we stand as a government before we go very much further."

This statement evoked great cheering.

UNION MEN CONSIDER RECALL OF ORDER

If Brotherhoods Don't Back Down Order Forbidding Walkout May Be Issued

Declaring that "it is almost certain the railroad strike will start on Sunday and spread all over the country before the end of next week," Everett Moran, President of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, this afternoon sent an imperative personal message to every member of the Chamber urging a hundred per cent. response to the call for volunteers. Information received by Chamber officials today indicates that the situation is much more dangerous than is generally realized, and they are doing all within their power to prepare to meet the emergency.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Peaceful settlement of the railway strike scheduled for October 30 seemed imminent this afternoon as the first session of the conference of executive committees of the five railway brotherhoods that have voted to walk out, adjourned. Definite decision to rescind the strike appeared certain at this afternoon's session of the rail union leaders.

Chicago, Oct. 27 (By the Associated Press).—Ben W. Hooper of the Railroad Labor Board left the conference of the five railway union executives shortly after noon and said the the strike had not been settled yet; that settlement "could hardly be expected while he was at the meeting."

The labor board meanwhile marked time, with a meeting of its members scheduled for this afternoon, with the question of whether it should issue an order forbidding the strike or attempt court action among the possibilities for its consideration.

Terms of he railroad labor board's final ruling on the strike, if the board decides one shall be necessary, as discussed informally by members of the board, brought out these salient points:

LEADERS OF BROTHERHOODS IN SESSION AT CHICAGO

1.—That the impending walkout must not be called.

2.—That the walkout, if called, will be in violation of the transportation act as it will be in rebellion against decision No. 147—The July 1 wage cut made by the board pursuant to its authority under the act.

3.—That the board will regard the strike, if called for any other reason than dissatisfaction with the July 1 decision, as evidence of "conspiracy to paralyze transportation."

4.—That members of the "Big Five" and Telegraphers Unions remain at work and rely upon the board to safeguard their interests from further encroachments possibly contemplated by the roads.

Mr. Hooper said the only thing he desired to bring before the meeting was the copy of the resolutions passed by the board.

"I have done that and they will now take the matter up," Mr. Hooper said. "We were surprised to find out that these men had never officially received a copy of the resolutions. The board thought they had. Of course they had seen parts of it and, possibly all of it in the newspapers, but officially it had never reached him.

"Inasmuch as we discussed this resolution with the railroad executives, it was only natural that we should see that it was brought before his body."

The union meeting broke up soon after Mr. Hooper left, with an announcement that the five organization would hold separate meetings about 1 p. m., and a joint meeting at 2 p. m.

"I was not sent by the board, but went on my own volition," said Hooper. "I still believe that the only basis of settlement is the resolution recently adopted by the board."

Mr. Hooper referred to the board's request that the men refrain from striking and give the board a chance to act on questions of further wage reductions or rules changes that the railroads may bring before it.

Mr. Hooper stated after the meeting that he wanted it understood that he had made no promises for the board or for himself.

President Lee of the trainmen accompanied Mr. Hooper back to the Labor Board offices and then returned to the brotherhood conference.

"I am confident that I shall be able to find Mary," she told interviewers.

"I shall start my search tonight, and one of the first places I intend to look is in Cambridge.

"My parents at first thought she had gone to my home in New York, but if she is in New York she has kept that fact carefully hidden from me. I have not seen or heard from her."

Mrs. Weck went immediately to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Powell of Dranislaw road, Woburn. Her mother is in a state of collapse as a result of her younger daughter's flight on her wedding night, and Mrs. Weck will superintend the care of her.

While she would not disclose the reason for her strange confidence, the New York girl indicated in talks with family friends that Mary would be back home in two or three days.

She made no comment on published statements to the effect that her father, infuriated by the humiliation brought upon him, had threatened to do violence to his daughter and the man with whom she is supposed to have run away.

Emperor's Household Poverty-Stricken

Berne, Switzerland, Oct. 27.—(By the Associated Press)Baron Steiner, the Associated Press Baron Steiner, household manager in Switzerland, today declared the financial situation of the ex-ruler's wife he was at Hertenstein always was precarious.

He declared that Charles and his relatives lived from hand to mouth and were constantly dependent upon financial assistance from their friends and relatives. There was constant pecuniary embarrassment, he said, which was due largely to Charles' expensive household, including some fifty servants.

Many of his servants now have been ordered expelled from the household without means of subsistance. It is considered probable that the Hungarian legation at Berne will have to take over the support of the former monarch's seven children, who remain at Hertenstein, under the supervision of their aunt or grandmother. Baron Steiner was one of those expelled.

$4,000,000 SUIT ATTACHMENTS DISMISSED

Former Federal Officials in Cassidy Case Win First Point

Attachments of bank accounts of various judges of the Federal Court and numerous lawyers and former Federal officials names in a $4,000,000 suit on behalf of Harmon P. MacKnight were released today when Judge Hale ordered the motion to dismiss the attachments vacated.

The motion to dismiss was brought by Attorney John H. Backus, formerly United States deputy marshal, who was one of about thirty persons, all being connected in some way with the prosecution of MacKnight.

Attorney Backus contended that he and Charles A. Duncroft, formerly deputy United States marshal, named as one of the defendants, were not deputy marshals at the time of the attachments.

It is epected tht inasmuch as the service was found to be defective on the numerous defendants by the attachments of their bank accounts that Attorney Howard, for MacKnight, would have new writs for attachments of the defendants' bank accounts and that this service will be performed by United States Marshal Kerrivan's office, according to law.

Attorney Howard has not as yet filed his declaration in the case which is believed to be connection with the prosecution of MacKnight, who was found guilty of using the mails in a scheme to defraud in connection with the sale of timber lands owned by the late James W. Cassidy of Bangor.

LYNN MAD DOG KILLS 53 HENS AND 3 CATS

Tearing through a series of hencoops in backyards of residences on Holyoke street, Lynn, and dashing down the street through a crowd of school children who were coming home for lunch, a big setter believed to have been afflicted with rabies caused a stir of excitement in Lynn at noon today.

The dog first dashed into the henroost behind the house of John Graham on Walnut street, where it killed and bit at the fowls in a frenzy. Then the animal ran into the coops owned by James Hamilton and Joseph Wilkins on Holyoke street. During a rampage 53 hens, 2 ducks and 3 cats were killed by the dog.

Police were called by Wilkish, and Dog Catcher Thomas Hayes with Patrolman John Rock. he dog rlu'dded them as they tried to throw a net over it. Rock finally put down three shots and fled to the Lynn woods a few blocks distant. The officers ordered the children of the school children who thronged the street to flee to safety.

The dog led for to miles through the wood, when the dog doubled back and returned to the hencoop in Wilkins yard. There the officers succeeded in putting a bullet through his brain. Another dog which had been bitten by the animal was also killed.

The two heads will be sent to Harvard for examination. No human beings were bitten by either of the animals.

RHODE ISLAND DRY BLAME CONGRESS

Providence, Oct. 27.—Ernest V. Claypool, president of the Rhode Island Anti-Saloon League, addressing the board of managers of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, declared that the ruling of the Treasury Department to allow the sale of beer under the guise of medicine was due to the dilatory action of Congress.

He hoped the effect would hasten the vote for the anti-beer bill and the cessation for all time of the sale of beer as medicine. He classed Rhode Island as a black mark on the map of prohibition America, and said it is the only State that has no law strong enough to stand behind the enforcement of prohibition.

DOBBINS REVEALS PRICE OF APARTMENTS

Robert M. Dobbins today told the Commission on the Necessaries of Life the price he paid for the apartments at No. 1211-1211 Commonwealth avenue. Dobbins' tenants protested against rents boosts. The commission held a public hearing. Dobbins refused to tell the purchase price at the hearing. The commission told him to "come through" or they would go into the courts. Dobbins gave the figure today and asked that it be regarded as "between me and the commission." The commission will decide tomorrow.

According to the police Dudley freed a pickpocket who took the sum of $65 from the pocket of Harry Masmanian, a Cambridge storekeeper, in the Harvard square subway station.

FIDDLER SUES RAILROAD FOR $10,000 DAMAGES

St. Louis, Oct. 27.—Nero, who fiddled while Rome burned, was not a professional musician, and his "fiddling fingers" didn't amount to so much.

With P. B. Hood of Perryville it is different. His "fiddling fingers" were necessary to make a living, he says.

An accident on the Frisco Railroad, he alleges in a petition filed at Poplar Bluff, impaired his "fiddling fingers" and left arm so badly that he cannot "fiddle as good as he used to." He asks $10,000 damages.

Duncan, who formerly resided in Englewood, N. J., met his br.de-to-be while a sophmore at Harvard. The friendship soon ripened to love. Later the engagement was announced.

Following the wedding trip, the couple will be at home at No. 878 Kenway, near the Fenway.

By Associated Press.

New York, Oct. 27.—The steamship Paris, which is on the way to New York from France with Marshal Foch, has slowed down in order that the George Washington, with General Pershing as a passenger, may arrive here tomorrow first.

Welcome to Marshal Foch is extended by Secretary of War Weeks in an article in Columbia, a magazine published under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus.

"America welcomes Foch," the article says, "because he represents the living force of democracy. He is the most conspicuous leader of modern times. His assumption of supreme command at the critical stage of the war gave a new confidence to the situation in Europe which could not have been attained in any other way.

The marshal in a radio greeting to the American people declared that he was "overjoyed over my visit to America, that glorious country which came so nobly to our help." He said he wished again to see the Americans "whom I have known in the conflict of war, in victorious peace and in the bosoms of their families."

his own car, but it was too late, and the two trolleys crashed head on with a force that telescoped them almost half way back and threw Dunn's car, with its thirty passengers, off the rails.

As soon as the uninjured passengers could extricate themselves from the wreckage two or three of them ran to a nearby house and telephoned to police headquarters here for assistance. At first it was feared that half of the fifty-odd passengers had been killed or fatally injured, and police and hospital ambulances and a number of doctors and nurses were sent to the scene.

They found that Mrs. Higgins, who had been sitting near the forward end of the car, was the only one who appeared to be fatally hurt, but the other injured ones were treated at the hospital here.

Railway officials and police authorities immediately began an investigation into the cause of the accident.

B. U. GIRL REJECTS STAGE OFFER TO STUDY FOR LAW DEGREE

IS GIVEN CHANCE TO BE STAR

An opportunity to go on the stage has been rejected by Rowena Kirle of No. 181 Spruce street, Chelsea, a senior at the Boston University Law School. To her fame and fortune are secondary to the desire for her college degree.

The coveted opportunity, an opportunity which most girls would be envious of, was a part, by no means inconspicuous, in the "Take It From Me" Company when it last played in Boston.

"And why did you refuse such a highly remunerative position which might have proved a stepping stone to stardom?" Miss Kirle was asked.

"Because a college degree means more to me than all the gold in the world," Miss Kirle answered. "After I am a college graduate, after I am more matured, then I will make up my mind if the stage is for me.

STUDENTS TOO FROLICSOME.

"That is the trouble with many a college student. Sometime in his four years, an offering shows itself, and he thoughtlessly, without any deliberation, without any consultation with older minds, forgets what college means and grabs that golden opportunity, as he thinks.

"But is it not true in every case that there are vain regrets, shattered hopes? The college, however, should instruct the student the meaning of "a college student," what it should stand for and why college students should think twice before forfeiting their position in the college.

"After many heart to heart talks with my mother, after much reasoning for the better or for the worse, although on both our parts my college degree had a 95 to 5 chance with the scale, we finally reached our conclusion.

IS B. U. LEADING LADY.

"I shall wait until I have received my degree from the Boston University Law School before deciding what profession to adopt. I am young yet and a year or two won't mean so much in the long run."

Miss Kirle is very popular in amateur theatrical productions. She recently took the leading part in a one-act comedy given by the Menorah Society of Boston University. She is exceptionally talented along dramatic lines and sings and dances well.

She will graduate from the Boston University Law School next June and is planning to take the bar examination. Miss Kirle is a prize beauty, having been announced in the recent contest held by the Boston Daily Advertiser.

BEBE DANIELS' PLAY STOLEN, SAYS AUTHOR

Los Angeles, Oct. 27.—Bebe Daniels, favorite of movie fans and star of the Realart Film Corporation, has been sued for $10,000 for alleged plagiarism Elmer Harris of the Realart concern has been made co-defendant.

Edward Charles Myatt, actor and author, who brings the suit, alleges that Harris and Miss Daniels stole the theme, idea and characters for their thriller, "The Speed Girl," from his scenario, "The Mile-a-Minute Girl."

According to Myatt, he tried to sell his scenario to Miss Daniels and Harris, and finally to the Realart Company as an organization. He was refused. Then, he says, he was surprised and indignant to see his own story transferred to the screen as a Daniels production, with little or no attempt at disguise.

The "Mile-a-Minute Girl" story concerns a wealthy young woman whose mania is speed, who is arrested, sentenced, serves ten days in jail and marries a government official.

LYNN MAN OF 73 UNCONSCIOUS IN GUTTER

Skull Fractured, He Tells Story of "Big Man With an Iron Pipe"

Moaning an incoherent story of an attack by a "big man with an iron pipe in his hand," Charles F. Johnson, seventy-three years old, is at the point of death in the Lynn General Hospital with a fractured skull.

The Lynn police are trying to solve the mystery that surrounds the discovery of his unconscious body in a gutter late at night.

Johnson was found in the gutter on Chestnut street, by Frank W. Hoyt of No. 19 Kensington Park, Lynn, who was returning home from his work. The place was dark and lonely, and Johnson had apparently been there for hours.

The only injury on his body is a depression on the back of his head, marking the spot where his skull was fractured. It was apparently caused by some instrument, such as a blackjack, and, inasmuch as it was not an open wound, police refuse to accept the theory that Johnson was struck by some passing automobile.

The old man is unable to give a connected story of the events leading up to the injury. Physicians say that his mind is wandering and that any account he might now give of any attack or accident would be valueless.

A son-in-law, Edward Hammond of Lynnfield Center, told police that Johnson was in the habit of carrying large sums of money and that he frequently displayed it. Hammond believes that his father-in-law was attacked by robbers. Police say, however, that Johnson had $11 in his pocket when taken to the hospital.

Johnson has rooms at No. 13 Rogers avenue, Lynn. He is retired from business and is said to be fairly well-to-do.

Boston Beauty's Rich Ex-Husband Weds Car Starter's Daughter

Millionaire Harriman Takes a Member of East Side Family as Third Bride; Met Latest as Nurse During Illness.

Once more the matrimonial affairs of Herbert Melville Harriman, millionaire banker and one time husband of the beautiful Isabella Hunnewell of Boston and Mrs. May Brady Harriman of Newport and New York, are entertaining Boston and Manhattan society folk.

Two beautiful women have loved and divorced Harriman, and now, according to the reports reaching his friends and acquaintances here, he has taken a third wife.

This time he went far from the inner circles of the smart set in which he had always moved, for his bride is the daughter of a car starter on the New York Metropolitan Street Railway Company's roll, who lives in New York's great East Side.

She is Miss Sally Hunter, who was born in Belfast, Ireland, 23 years ago, and is of the blonde type of Irish beauty.

The ceremony was performed at French Lick Springs, Indiana, according to Mrs. Oliver Harriman, of New York, a sister-in-law of the bride.

MET MAGNATE AS NURSE.

Miss Hunter came to this country with her father, sister and mother when she was but 16, and is a trained nurse by profession.

Indeed, it was through her professional work that she first came to know the millionaire clubman, banker, capitalist and golf champion.

When the war broke out and this country entered it, Miss Hunter enrolled with the American Red Cross. Harriman was a captain in the American army overseas.

On his return to this country he met Miss Hunter and was enormously impressed by her extraordinary beauty.

But at the time the affair went no further. He was then still the husband of Mrs. May Brady Harriman, of The Pines, at Newport.

And then Fate began to work. Last March Mrs. May Harriman brought suit for divorce and won it, declaring that Harriman had failed to provide for her support and that "for five years he has been intoxicated continually."

Later in the Spring Harriman was taken ill. His doctor called in a trained nurse to care for him. Later still his nurse called in a friend to aid her on the case. This friend was Miss Hunter.

Harriman got well fast under the care of this nurse. Before he left for a short trip to Europe he proposed and was accepted. On his return to this country he went to French Lick, Ind., for certain treatment.

LONG-WEDDED CAREER.

And last Monday, according to the reports from New York, the climax came. Miss Hunter received an urgent telegram from Harriman begging her to hasten to French Lick for their wedding without delay.

Miss Hunter obeyed, after calling her friends and relatives to a family conference at her father's East Side home, at which she announced she was about to leave New York to wed the millionaire.

The bride has two sisters and two brothers. One of the latter is a clerk in a Fifth avenue store, and the other is engaged in the car barling business in New York.

Harriman's matrimonial career began many years ago, when he married Miss Isabella Hunnewell of this city. Their married life was not a happy one, and in 1906 she brought suit for divorce, alleging failure to provide.

Then in 1911 Harriman married again. This time his bride was Mrs. May Brady-Stevens-Spencer Hall, daughter of Justice Brady of New York and the possessor of many millions left her by her first husband, C. Rouert Stevens of Castle Point, Hoboken.

That marriage came to grief in the divorce court last Spring and on the same grounds.

Harriman is the son of the late Oliver Harriman, a brother of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Sr., Mrs. Stephen H. Olin and Mrs. Frederick C. Havemeyer.

He is the possessor of an enormous fortune in his own name and the owner of a number of beautiful homes in an out-of-New-York city.

By Associated Press.

Belfast, Oct. 27.—Reports in Belfast indicate that the Irish Republican army is very active in County Donegal. A force numbering 800 men is said to have marched through the village of Milford. A party described as "the flying column" is staying at the workhouse.

The headquarters of the Letterkenny Irish Republican army camp are said to be at the sumptuously equipped shooting lodge.

Another camp is said to have been established at Carrick.

The volunteers are understood to be called up in batches of one and three men for ten days' compulsory training.

BIGAMY CHARGE FOLLOWS HIS WEDDING

Sheriff With Divorce Papers Arrives After Nuptials and Locks Up Bridegroom

Grafton, Oct. 27.—John Harry Miller, a nurse at the Grafton State Hospital, has been arrested on a charge of bigamy. Miller was married Monday to Miss Margaret Ellen Clark, also a nurse at the institution, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. Francis Russell.

According to the license, Miller was a widower, and gave his home as Farmington. The bride gave her home as Montreal.

Deputy Sheriff Keith came to the hospital to serve divorce proceedings on Miller instituted by his first wife, and arrived one day too late to save Miller from being a bigamist. He was taken into custody upon the latter charge and locked up in jail, where he was visited by his bride of a day, who says she will stick by him in his trouble.

His first wife is said to be Leola J. Worthy of Strong, Franklin County, Maine. She is now living in Medford and signed the divorce libel there on October 18.

According to Miller, he married the second time sure that he was a widower and that his first wife was dead. He is thirty-five years of age and his second wife, who is heartbroken over the trouble, is twenty-four.

TEETH OF SLAIN GIRL VICTIM EXAMINED

Dentist Who Worked on Mrs. Higgins' Mouth Tries to Identify Body

By Associated Press.

New York, Oct. 27.—Examination of dental work in the lower jaw of the body of the girl found last Saturday in Long Island City was begun today by Chief Medical Examiner Norris, in an effort to verify a second identification of the body as that of Mrs. Dolly Bailey Higgins.

Dr. Norris was assisted by a dentist who had worked on Mrs. Higgins' teeth.

The body was identified for the second time yesterday as Mrs. Higgins' by Mrs. Anna Bailey, mother of Mrs. Higgins. This identification was corroborated by two friends of the family who had known Mrs. Higgins well.

A sister of Mrs. Higgins identified the body as that of her sister two days ago, but her story was discounted partly by divergences between her description of her sister and the description worked out by physicians of how the murdered woman must have looked in life, and partly by the fact that Thomas Higgins, husband of the missing Dolly, declared the body was not that of his wife.

The medical authorities' examination of the body convinced them the slain woman was not more than twenty-three yeads old, while Higgins said his wife was thirty-one.

A man Mrs. Bailey said had paid attentions to Mrs. Higgins is being sought by the police for questioning concerning the case.

CLAIMS YOUTH ADMITTED HE KILLED GIRL

New Jersey Man Grilled Following Charges of His Companion

Morristown, N. J., Oct. 27.—Frank Jankona, twenty years old, of Florham Park, was held in the Morris County jail here today on suspicion of murdering Janette Lawrence, twelve, whose mutilated body was found in a woods at Madison several weeks ago.

The Lawrence girl had been brutally assaulted and there were more than twenty stab wounds on her body.

Jankona was arrested as a result of the story told prosecutor's detectives by Frank McGrory of Newark, who said he had met Jankona on the night of the murder and that Jankona had confessed murdering the child.

"I was with Jankona the day of the murder and met him again that night," McGrory told detectives.

"I met him again that night and noticed his shirt, sleeve and trousers were spotted with blood. It was then that he told me how he had assaulted and finally murdered the girl because he thought she identified him."

Jankona was grilled by police for four hours, but steadfastly maintained his innocence. Jankona said he had gone to Madison to visit his brother, who is employed in a greenhouse there. It was recalled that the Lawrence girl's arms were tied with cord used by florists when the body was found.

UNITED CIGARS MAY TAKE OVER SCHULTE

Combine of Two Big Chains Would Mean Total of $100,000,000 Yearly Business

News that negotiations are under way for the merging of the United Cigar Stores Corporation and the Schulte Retail Stores Corporation through the absorbing of the latter by the former concern, caused much comment in tobacco trade and financial circles today.

If the deal goes through it was declared that it would represent by far the largest single transaction in the history of the tobacco industry.

D. A. Schulte, head of the Schulte corporation is quoted as having admitted that negotiations are under way, but denying that any definite step has been taken by his concern regarding the proposition made by the Whelan-Duke interests which control the United.

The Schulte have an annual business turnover of approximately $30,000,000, while that of the United is approximately four times that, or more than $120,000,000.

None of the officials of either company in Boston would discuss the report today, nor give any information regarding the nature of the deal, but it was intimated that the basis upon which the transfer would be made is an exchange of stock.

The Schulte company has outstanding 244,000 shares of common stock and $800,0000 worth of preferred stock. There has been no cash distribution on the common shares.

Financial circles here and in New York have been watching with interest the recent increase in strength of both these securities. The common sold at the recent liquidation of the company at $30, but is now quoted in the "across the counter" sales at between $45 and $45. It is not listed.

Stock of the United Cigar Stores Corporation, which is listed on the New York Exchange, is quoted at $35 a share.

Even if the deal goes through, Schulte declared, the Schulte stores will not lose their individuality.

The growth of the chain store idea in the tobacco trade has been remarkable. The Schulte company started in a little stand in the Old French Hotel, which stood in 1832 on the site now occupied by the New York World building. The United Cigar Stores Corporation has grown from similar beginnings.

Cambridge Woman Who Fought Cut in G. O. P. Women's Expenses

QUITS AS STATE TREASURER FOR REPUBLICANS

Bangs Resigns After Row Over Efforts to Reduce the Women's Budget

The resignation of Francis Reginald Bangs of Boston as treasurer of the Republican State Committee marks the climax of his repeated attempts to cut the budget of the women's division.

At a meeting a few days ago, Bangs presented a new budget, cutting out all the expenditures of the women's division except for rent. Mrs. James D. Tillinghast of Cambridge, chairman of the women's executive committee, Mrs. Frank R. Batchelder of Worcester, Mrs. George W. Knowlton, Jr., of Upton, and others protested vigorously.

In the face of this opposition by the women, Bangs continued his policy, and efforts were made to enlist Vice-President Coolidge, Secretary of War Weeks and Senator Lodge to support of the Bangs policy.

Howard Fall of Malden was selected to succeed Bangs.

EXPERT ASSERTS SHOCK KILLED MRS. LOTZ

Dr. Eaton Declares Insane Person Is Unable to Appreciate Pain

That Mrs. Mary C. Lotz of Malden did not endure conscious suffering while in a tub of hot water at the Wiswall Sanitarium, Wellesley, in which she met her death on November 10, 1919, was the opinion expressed yesterday by Dr. Harold H. Eaton of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Dr. Eaton is an expert on mental diseases and testified before Judge Thompson and a jury in the Middlesex Superior Court at East Cambridge.

Edward Lotz of Malden, husband of the deceased, and also administrator of his estate, seeks $50,000 from Mrs. Hannah Wiswall, proprietor of the sanitarium, alleging that negligence resulted in his wife being scalded to death.

Dr. Eaton testified that persons who suffered with manic depressive insanity, such as Mrs. Lotz, had little or no appreciation of pain. This was because they were unable to keep their minds fixed upon anything long enough to appreciate pain.

He gave it as his opinion that Mrs. Lotz came to her death when the temperature of the water reached 110 degrees fahrenheit and remained so for several minutes. He believed that she died from shock and not from prolonged struggles in the water.

He said that in his opinion she did not struggle, for if this were so the blisters upon her body would have been broken. He said that the blisters and burns could have occurred after death.

William H. Smith of Boston, an expert on plumbing, testified that he had examined the hot water valve in the tub where Mrs. Lotz died the day after the accident and found nothing the matter with the valve. He found no difficulty in turning the valve nor in controlling the flow of water from it.

Dr. Edward H. Wiswall, a son of Mrs. Wiswall, testified that he, too, had examined the valve after the accident and found nothing the matter with it. He said that he had instructed the nurses at the institution in its uses.

JOINT PURCHASE PLAN LOWERS LIVING COST

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER.

New York, Oct. 27.—The low cost of living is being pasged for you. Mr. and Mrs. American citizen!

In an office here, situated at the strategic point where Fifth avenue's stately merchandising meets and mingles with Sixth avenue's humbler bustle, I heard the call sent forth.

And so there might be no possibility of it going unheeded, I listened to a soliloquy being hurried after it, one which is really the answer slightly disguised!

The eager-eyed, purposeful young man who thus has begun to hunt down sky-piloting prices, and who seems in a fair way to win his quest, is George K. Culp, one time of Missouri, later of Denver and Chicago, and for the past two years of this city.

BEGAN AS SALESMAN.

Mr. Culp began as a salesman of automobile tires. While handling these goods he conceived the idea of co-operative buying and selling and put it over in the good old star-spangled manner.

It was while receiving the grateful plaudits of automobile owners that he bought of a downtrodden dub who for dozens of long, dreary months has been forced to go without a new hat for he wises a new shirt, and who has been obliged to forget both if he needs new shoes. And as for madeira, the gentleman's wife—poor thing!

Clothes, reasoned Mr. Culp, are more necessary to a greater number of people than are automobile accessories to a few. So he explained:

"It was less than a month ago that I held a straw to the wind.

"Today we have one thousand retail clothing and furnishing stores scattered all over the country which have come in on my plan.

"We also have an assortment of manufacturers, representing every article of men's wear and many of the more staple garments for women, who also are a part of the cost-lowering scheme.

ACT AS CLEARING HOUSE.

"We—that is, the firm I have organized—act as a clearing house between manufacturer and retailer. The system is based on the theory that quantity purchase can be obtained at lower rates than individual buying and the ultimate consumer is the one who benefits by sliced prices.

"Accordingly we receive orders from our retailers. These orders then are placed with the manufacturer in the territory most convenient to the retailer. Goods are purchased at cost price plus 10 per cent.

"The retailer then is enabled to do more than the previous amount of local advertising, sell at a reasonable profit above cost to himself overhead, and still offer his goods at prices away below those at which clothing has been selling."

By the co-operative plan, Mr. Culp said, men's garments already are being sold by members of the system at from $8 to $5 per cent, under other prices. The maximum cut is on shoes, Garments handled are coats, suits, shirts, hats, shoes.

So far less than has been done with women's wear. However, a cut of from thirty to fifty per cent. has been realized on women's hosiery, silk underwear, sport clothes, kid and silk gloves and cotton goods by the yard.

He continued:

"It appears that the co-operative plan not only is a remedy for high cost of living, but it also will do away with unemployment. Factories in our group are working three shifts and running all the time. You see it is a matter of supplying the demand, rather than creating a supply for which there may be a demand."

WOMAN SUES FOR ATTACK IN PULLMAN

Demands $15,000 From Road, Naming Traveling Salesman as Assailant

Lockport, N. Y., Oct. 27.—The story of how a man, scantily clad, made an attack upon a well-known Lockport woman in a Pullman coach, resulting in injury and humiliation to the latter, is being told to Justice Wheeler and a jury in a $15,000 damage action tried in Supreme Court here.

The plaintiff is Mrs. Helen F. Thompson, widow of James K. Stewart, a manufacturer.

George B. Thompson, former head of the Thompson Milling Company, is the plaintiff and the New York Central Railroad Company and the Pullman Company are defendants.

The alleged assault happened on the morning of May 26, 1920. Mrs. Thompson, who lives at No. 161 East avenue, was a passenger on a train bound from New York city to Buffalo, and she alleges she was assaulted by L. J. Rodhe, a traveling salesman, residence not known.

A further claim to the plaintiff is that during the alleged assault she lost a diamond ring worth $150. The railroad and Pullman companies are charged with negligence because Mrs. Thompson claims she did not receive protection.

HEIRESS BEQUEATHS $1,000,000 TO SISTER

Chicago, Oct. 27.—By the will of her ten-year-old sister, Marion Stewart Honeymoon receives $1,000,000 left to the child by her father, the late Mrs. Helen F. Thompson, widow of James K. Stewart, a manufacturer.

Pretty Natick Girl Regains Health Thru New Gland Tablets

Ill Health Forced Miss Deering to Give Up Position—Thanks Glandex for Her Quick Recovery.

"I think there is nothing in the world like Glandex to build up your system when you are run-down, weak and nervous, as I was," said pretty Marion Deering, a popular member of the younger set of Natick, Mass., whose home is at 44 Washington Street.

"Several months ago I began to run-down in health. I became so nervous that sometimes I thought I'd just fly to pieces, and was so tired out all the time that I had to give up my position. While other young people were enjoying themselves I was forced to stay at home on account of my poor health. I just felt wretched, for I was troubled with dull headaches all the time, my stomach was out of order, I was losing weight, I couldn't get my rest at night, and I became as pale as a sheet.

"My mother and sister, as well as myself, became alarmed at my condition, for nothing I took seemed to help me. My brother-in-law told me about Glandex, so I finally decided to give it a trial. It just worked wonders for me! Today my appetite is just excellent, I never have those headaches, I'm getting all over my nervousness, and I sleep soundly all night long. In fact, I am willing to say that my clothes are actually tight for me, and my strength has increased so that I now feel like I never would as I used to. I really feel like a different girl. My complexion was never better and all my friends are remarking on how well I look again. I never hesitate to tell them about Glandex. It certainly is a grand tonic, and I'll always recommend it."

Amazing Results Everywhere.

The reason Glandex brings such amazing results in so many cases is because it helps build up run-down glands—which science now says are the cause of many run-down conditions. Glandex feeds run-down human glands with extracts taken from the glands of vigorous sheep and cattle. Practically on the same principle as re-charging a storage battery. Glandex tones and stimulates well known health glands.

Next week, this or generally run-down condition will be remarkable help. Brings results—or your money back. Has helped thousands to regain health and strength. Try a box, today! Sold at good druggists everywhere.

READERS FIND TITLE TESTS A DELIGHT

So Here Is a New One for Book-lovers With $5,000 to Be Awarded

Do you know why so many persons like Boston American picture tests?

"Who," you may ask "wouldn't like a chance at some part of Five Thousand Dollars?"

But it isn't always the money!

Miss A., for example, writes that:

Now the contest is over, I don't know what to do with myself. Do, please, start another one! I just missed finishing among the winners in this second one, but I do not mind that, at all. I looked forward to my work on the pictures every evening with real delight. I did better in the second Test than in the one before, and I am sure that with another chance I shall be able to solve your artist successfully. Another contest, please!

And Mr. B. testifies:

I wonder if you know how much good a contest of this kind really does. These two have introduced (or re-introduced) three members of this family to the good, old dictionary and the proper use of other reference books. We have had in the past two months many after-supper gatherings of the family quite like those I knew as a boy. And the strange meanings we have found familiar words to have! Your artist is an artist, and no mistake. We'll get him yet, and even if we don't, the pursuit will be profitable as well as pleasant. While C., D. and E. make it short and snappy with: "Give us another contest," or "When do we have another one?" or "The nights are growing longer and colder; this is the season for a contest."

And so there is going to be one!

A Book Title Test!

Five thousand dollars in awards, for those who find and write Correct Titles.

No stickers, no repeats; an "easy" one!

Begins in the Boston American on Monday, November 7.

ALLEGED CAMBRIDGE THIEF IS DEFAULTED

When the case of James J. O'Brien of West Third street, South Boston, was called in Cambridge court today on the charge of stealing an automobile, O'Brien failed to respond and he was defaulted. O'Brien gained notoriety last Saturday night when he attempted to steal the car of John Sullivan from in front of the Central Club under the bright lights of Central square before the Saturday night throng. When arrested by Inspectors Coady and Hurley he carried an automatic pistol. O'Brien was on $400 bail.

WATERTOWN HYDRANT HIT BY AUTO FLOODS STREET

Trying to avoid crashing into a touring car at Mt. Auburn and Winthrop streets, Watertown, today, Albert P. LeMeyer of Lawrence ran his heavily loaded truck into a hydrant. The hydrant snapped off short at the base, deluging the vicinity, until the flow was stopped by city workmen. LeMeyer was summoned to Waltham court on a charge of driving an overloaded truck, but failed to appear when his case was called. A default warrant was issued.

RIALTO MEN WERE NEVER SUSPECTED IN FIRE

An error in the Boston American yesterday made it appear that four Lynn men arrested on suspicion of incendiarism were members of the Rialto Shoe Company of that city. They were in fact, members or employes of the Trubiti Shoe Company, which is located in the same building at No. 61 Mulberry street, Lynn. The Rialto Company officials and employes were never suspected, but the Rialto factory was considerably damaged by water.

HOSMER EXONERATED IN AUTO DEATH CASE

Sidney B. Hosmer, twenty-two years old, of No. 75 Bay State road, Back Bay, was freed today when he appeared in Cambridge court charged with manslaughter. Hosmer was driving an automobile on October 21 when it struck a side car on Harvard bridge, killing John Bishop of Roxbury and injuring his brother, Bernard Bishop.

Fresh From Paris

Latest Word From Marie Suzanne

Paris, France.

BY introducing lace in their new models, French couturiers indicate that its vogue has not yet begun to wane. A gown of French blue Canton crepe, suitable for the matinee and tea hour, has a cape of silver lace draped over its shoulders and reaching nearly to the hem of the skirt. The frock itself is sleeveless, the cape falling over the upper part of the arm. From the folds of a unique girdle, sections of the crepe loop down to the skirt edge in an attractive drapery.

OVER a slip of midnight blue crepe de chine matching blue lace is used in a redingote effect. The wide lace sleeves are edged with sable, while the girdle is of silver links. A fold of blue chiffon attached to the edge of the lace tunic falls in an uneven line below the hem of the skirt.

14 MEMBERS OF CONGRESS WILL GO TO CANADA

Accept Invitation of W. R. Hearst to Study Operation of Sales Tax

By Universal Service.

Washington, Oct. 28.—Acceptances by members of Congress of the invitation to visit Canada on a special train to study the Dominion sales tax law in actual operation now total fourteen.

The difficulty of fixing a date for the trip that will not interfere with urgent business before both the Senate and the House is all that prevents definite acceptance by a score of others.

Letters are still being received commending the enterprise of the Hearst newspapers in offering the lawmakers an opportunity to get information that will enable them to formulate the best possible tax program. The acceptances to date are:

Senator J. Thomas Heflin, Alabama; Representatives Hill and Reece, Tennessee; Kopp, Iowa; Echols and Rosenbloom, West Virginia; Carew, New York; French, Idaho; Wurzbach, Texas; Hays, Missouri; Brown, Wisconsin; Raker, California; McLaughlin, Michigan; Sabath, Illinois.

Senator Heflin of Alabama expressed the hope that there will be an early adjournment of Congress so as to enable members to make the trip. He writes:

"There is some probability of an adjournment around the 10th or 15th of November, and in the event this should occur I will be very glad to become a member of the party."

Unable himself to make the trip, because of accumulated business during his recent visit to Russia, Senator Joseph I. France of Maryland nevertheless indorses the movement, saying:

"It would be a very fine thing indeed for some members of Congress to make this trip in order to study directly the operation of the sales tax in Canada. It is not necessary, however, for me to go to Canada for this purpose, as I have been convinced that we should give the sales tax a try in this country, and I shall vote for the 8mool amendment."

From Representative Joseph W. Byrns, of Tennessee, ranking minority member of the committee on appropriations, came an expression of "Hearty commendation of the efforts of Mr. Hearst to afford members of Congress this first hand information as to the actual operation of this tax as it affects retail prices and the national revenue."

Byrns hopes to be able to make the proposed Canadian trip at a later date.

GREECE SEEKS RELEASE OF CREDITS U. S. GRANTED

250 GHOSTS AT SIMMONS IN INK BATTLE

Chilled and Quaking Juniors Finally Rout Spooks From Dormitories

Two hundred and fifty ghosts in ghastly white arose from Nowhere at midnight last night and stalked through the dormitories of Simmons College, directing their sinister line toward the junior class.

The chilled and quaking juniors put up a noble fight and for half an hour water, ink, salt and cider flew about indiscriminately. Spotless sheets and pillow cases darkened into a motley of ink and mud. Handfuls of hair parted company with their protesting owners.

Still the sophomores held their line until they reached the colonnades. There the juniors concentrated for one grea effort and the ghostly forces retreated in disorder before the onrush, to reappear later in the refectory.

What mysterious ceremonies took place there, over the customary caldron will forever remain unpublished. For the class secret was burned and Agnes Broward of Jacksonville, Fla., president of the sophomore class, solemnly swore her chorts to secrecy.

ARREST OF MAN IN PROVIDENCE HALTS WEDDING

Abington Girl Returns Home After Finding Fiance Is Held by Police

Pretty twenty-year-old Thelma Minsey is at her home in Abington, while the man she hoped would be her husband today is in a cell at Fall River.

Albert Estes, Jr., of Cherry street, Fall River, her fiance, was arrested on a charge of forgery while the two were in Providence. When Miss Minsey went to his room on the day they had planned to be married, she found a policeman there, who told her of his arrest.

Miss Minsey is the daughter of Mrs. Edith Ellershaw of High street, Abington. With her mother she went to Fall River Monday. The three then went to Providence. They found they must wait five days for a marriage license.

"I had the marriage ring all ready," said Miss Minsey, "and we were greatly disappointed, but Albert said we would go to New York the next morning and be married without delay."

They engaged rooms at a hotel, and during the night Estes was arrested. He had forged two checks, neither for more than $100, using his father's name, according to the police.

By Associated Press.

Montreal, Oct. 27.—Linking of the reports of two provincal officials today gave an idea of the financial value of an oasis like the Province of Quebec bordering a "dry" United States.

J. L. Perron, Minister of roads, reported that this Summer American tourists had spent $35,000,000 in the Province.

Premier Taschereau estimated that profits from Quebec's government-controlled liquor stores would total $4,000,000 a year.

NORTH DAKOTA ELECTION SEEN AS VITAL

Poll Will Give Line on Strength and Leanings of Farmers, Hapgood Says

By NORMAN HAPGOOD

Staff Correspondent of the Boston American.

Washington, Oct. 27.—How many words do you imagine are sent out of this town for publication? A careful estimate makes it half a million words a day. Of these a little less than half take the trouble to go over the telegraph wires.

Five hundred thousand words would make five good-sized books. Out of this mass of daily material how much interests a whole lot of people? Not much I imagine.

It would have been well if there had been more interesting writing during the last month or two, about an extraordinarily significant contest that is to be decided Friday.

The election is in the State of North Dakota, but the issues are those which will face one agricultural community after another as it endeavors to escape from the control of big national business and conduct its own affairs for itself.

SOLONS ARE INTERESTED.

One place where the importance of this election is well understood is on Capitol Hill. The statesmen who abide on that eminence have learned this year what it means to have a group of agricultural Senators and Representatives who act together, know what they want, and usually get it.

The members of Congress, therefore, are naturally interested in an election which will give a line on the present strength of the farmers in the State where they have done more toward managing their own affairs than they ever had done in any other part of the United States.

The recall machinery has been started in the attempt to remove from office Governor Frazier, Attorney General Lemke and Secretary of Agriculture Hagan.

The initiative has been used to initiate laws that would undo the whole program that the farmers, through their Non-Partisan League, have been able to work out in the few years since they obtained political control of the State.

The campaign against the Non-Partisan League is being carried on by a temporary organization formed to combine Republicans and Democrats against the league. There is no difference between the two old parties, and they know how to get together when trouble is in the sky.

FIGHT ON BANK.

The first purpose of this election is to destroy the Bank of North Dakota. Banking heretofore has been the affair of the large moneyed men. The farmers got the State into banking because they found, or thought they found, that it was the only way the State could finance its reform program.

The second purpose is to destroy such legislation as the law lending aid to home building; the State insurance against destruction of crops by hail; the acts grading grain, as cotton is graded in the South. The bi-partisan combination is running for attorney general a man who has been leading the legal fight against the grain grading act.

In Canada also this election is watched with special interest. The farmers in Canada have been winning a series of sweeping political victories, somewhat along North Dakota lines, in their respective provinces, and they are now playing a large role in the national election in which Premier Meighan is to go to the country for re-election.

The movement of the farmers is indeed worldwide. Nobody paid much attention to a meeting not long ago in Paris. It was a meeting of farmers, peasants, from all agricultural countries except Russia. It was preceded by meetings in Passau and Vienna.

ALL NATIONS IN GROUP.

The worldwide association of farmers is called the green international. German farmers and French farmers sit down together, with Spanish, Italian, Swiss, Belgian, Bulgarian and Polish representatives.

The farmer everywhere means business. He is tired of government by big financial interests. He may never have heard of Philip of Macedon, but he would understand what that monarch meant when he boasted that he could capture any place into which he could drive an ass laden with gold.

DEMOCRATS FIGHT MOVE TO EXPEL BLANTON

Washington, Oct 27.—With the Texas Senatorship at stake, the House Democrats lined up as many of their followers as possible to vote against the resolution for the expulsion of Representative Thomas L. Senate to succeed Senator Culberson, who is not expected to make the race again.

HARDING SPEAKS TWICE TODAY IN ATLANTA

Mayor Key Leaves Note for President and Takes Train for New York

By Associated Press

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 27.—Atlanta was gaily decorated today in honor of President Harding and his party, whose program included a luncheon with a brief address and a public address at the Grady monument late in the day.

While Governor Hardwick and prominent business men were assigned as hosts to the President, Secretaries Weeks and Fall and Senator Underwood were at a luncheon at the Druid Hills Club. Mrs. Harding was the luncheon guest of Mrs. Lee Ashcraft, wife of the president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor Key left a letter of welcome and apology for the President, explaining that he had to accompany the Georgia Tech football team to New York.

After the luncheon the President and his party were to be escorted by local military organizations and R. O. T. C. units from nearby schools and colleges to the Grady monument for the public address. This evening the President will leave for Washington.

SOVIET TO ACKNOWLEDGE FOREIGN DEBT OF CZAR

Copenhagen, Oct 27 (by the Associated Press).—A dispatch from Reval to the Social Democraten today quoted Maxim Litvinoff, chief of the Russian Soviet legations abroad, as saying: "We have informed England and France that the Soviet government is ready to acknowledge Imperial Russia's debt to foreign capitalists, but it would be absolutely necessary to confer regarding the ways and means of redeeming that debt."

You Can't Brush or Wash Out Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—Advertisement.

MOVIE ACTRESSES AND THEIR HAIR

Did it ever occur to you that every movie actress you have seen has lovely hair, while the most popular count their curls as their chief beauty? In fact, many are leading ladies just because of their attractive looks. Inquiry among them discloses the fact that they bring out all the natural beauty of their hair by careful shampooing, not with any soap or cakeshift, but with a simple mixture by putting a teaspoonful of canthrox (which they get from the druggist) in a cup of hot water and applying this instead of soap. This full cup of shampoo liquid is enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. After its use, the hair dries rapidly with uniform color, fluffy, the excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. The hair is so fluffy that it looks much heavier than it is, its luster and softness are delightful.—Advertisement.

DON'T take chances with your children's welfare. Rid them safe and secure against vermin. Kil-ve is a clean and harmless, non-oily, non-sticky preparation, that destroys, not only vermin, but eggs, nits or larvae and their breeding place. ## Peterson's Ointment Best for Eczema

First Application Stops Itching of Eczema, Salt Rheum and Piles.

Ends Chafing Distress in Five Minutes. "Live and let live is my motto," says Peterson of Buffalo. "Druggists all over America sell PETERSON'S OINTMENT for 35 cents a large box and I say to those druggists, if anyone buys my ointment for any of the diseases or ailments for which I recommend it and are not benefited, give them their money back.

"I've got a safe full of thankful letters testifying to the mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment for old and running sores, eczema, salt rheum, ulcers, sore nipples, broken breast, itching scalp, chafing and blind, itching and bleeding piles."

John Scott, 183 Virginia Street, Buffalo, writes, "Peterson's Ointment is simply wonderful. It cured me of eczema and also piles, and it did it so quickly that I was astonished." Mail orders filled by Peterson's Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

DOCTORS OFTEN MISTAKEN ON TUBERCULOSIS

Tufts Professor Asserts That 60 P. C. of Supposed Victims Have Another Disease

From 40 to 60 per cent. of those people who are sent to sanitariums for tuberculosis are found to be suffering from some other disease, according to Dr. Edward O. Otis, professor in Tufts Medical College, and president of the Massachusetts Tuberculosis League.

Dr. Otis, speaking before the institute of the Boston Tuberculosis Association at the Massachusetts General Hospital, described the difficulties attending the diagnosis of tuberculosis.

OFTEN MISS DISEASE.

"Physicians miss tuberculosis when it is present more often than they diagnosis as tuberculosis some other disease," he declared. "Of late years, however, there has been a tendency in the other direction, and doctors have been too ready to call a suspected disease tuberculosis.

"There are many diseases which are frequently mistaken for tuberculosis. These are chiefly diseases of the respiratory tract, or breathing apparatus. They all have symptoms common to tuberculosis.

"The presence of rales, as they are called, or faint rasping sounds heard in the patient's lungs when he breathes, are generally taken to be an important symptom of tuberculosis. These rales are generally localized in some portion of the lungs."

Physicians who diagnose as tuberculosis cases where rales are heard in the base or lower part of one or both lungs are almost invariably mistaken, according to Dr. Otis. Unless active bacilli or germs of tuberculosis are found in the sputum, some other diagnosis must be made.

INFLUENZA MISTAKEN.

"Influenza is one of the diseases commonly mistaken. In this disease there is general weakness, cough, expectoration, and rales, much as there is in tuberculosis. The rales are frequently in the apex, or upper part of the lungs, which further confuses the diagnosis.

"Bronchitis, pneumonia and tumor or cancer of the lung also present difficulty to the diagnostician. In acute bronchitis, rales are generally heard in both lungs, which is rare in tuberculosis. In pneumonia, the rales are usually in the base of the lung.

"Stone cutters, who inhale large quantities of dust in their work, are often believed consumptive. Experiment has proved, however, that if these men are given other work which is free from dust, their lungs eventually clear up. Return to stone cutting, however, always brings a relapse."

TELLS HOW GERM WORKS.

How the tuberculosis germ does its deadly work was explained by Dr. Lawrence W. Smith of the Department of Pathology at the Harvard Medical School.

"When the tubercle bacillus establishes himself in the lung nature attempts to wall him up by surrounding him with scar tissue, such as forms over a wound," he said.

"This tissue cuts off the blood stream to that spot, and eventually the lung tissue in the center dies and is sloughed off. In the process a steady mass is formed, gluing portions of the lung together.

"The violent tearing apart of these glued portions ruptures the lung and causes the hemorrhages so well known in advanced cases of the disease."

FEW BORN WITH PLAGUE.

Cases of children born with tuberculosis are so rare as to be practically non-existent, according to Dr. Smith. Yet by the tenth year, 90 per cent. of all children show signs of tubercular infection.

This fact has led physicians to believe that adults rarely "catch" tuberculosis. As in cases of tuberculosis in adults are almost always the development of infection received and undeveloped in early childhood.

AMERICANS TO PASS JUDGMENT ON ART

Pittsburgh, Oct. 27.—Homer St. Gaudens, assistant director of the Fine Arts Department of the Carnegie Institute, shortly before his departure for Europe, announced that there had been instituted a new plan in the jury system for the selection and awards in the International Exhibition of Paintings. Two American members and two European members will be selected by a committee to pass upon paintings of international artists.

PATROLMAN FIRES AT FLEEING PRISONER

Patrolman Hannaburg fired several shots in quick succession when a prisoner, whom he had brought to the box at Day square, East Boston, broke away and escaped. Bystanders declared that the fleeing man limped after one of the shots. The prisoner was one of three arrested in the freight yards of the New York Central Railroad on Bremen street. The trio went quietly to the box, but while Hannaburg was telephoning one darted away. Hannaburg hurled his club at him, and then drew his revolver.

DIAZ WILL COME TO BOSTON IN DECEMBER

Italian War Hero Notifies Mayor Peters He Will Be Guest Early in Month

General Armando Diaz, who broke up the Austro-German drive into Italy, is coming to Boston. The famous Italian commander, now in Washington, today sent a telegram to Mayor Peters accepting the latter's invitation and promising to come here early in December.

His telegram follows: "I express my most hearty thanks for your kind invitation, which I gladly accept for some day in the first ten of December, which I shall later be able to fix. With best regards."

Boston's large Italian population has been intensely interested in the presence of the national war hero in America and had long hoped he would consent to visit the city.

How You Can Remove Every Trace of Hair

(Tollet Tallor)

A stiff paste made with some powdered delatone and water and spread on a hairy surface about 3 minutes will, when removed, take every trace of hair with it. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining delatone. No harm can result from this treatment, but be sure it is delatone you get and you will not be disappointed. Mix fresh as needed.—Advertisement.

Following receipt of the telegram assuring them of his appearance, heads of various Italian societies began to make plans for a warm welcome for the distinguished soldier.

The city and State will also begin planning an elaborate program as soon as the day of the general's coming is definitely announced.

History's Fatal Mistake Founded Beauty Science of Today

By VERNON RADCLIFFE

YEARS ago in Florence, Benvenuto Cellini, decided to accomplish a perfect work of art. He secured a model, and gilded the living body from head to foot. The result was beautiful but mistaken. When the pores were all closed by the gilt—within two hours, the child died.

Cellini's idea has not been outgrown. It persists with the modern complexion.

Closing the Pores To-day

To-day the care of the complexion has become increasingly necessary, increasingly hard.

The trains roar back and forth. The streets throb continuously from the exhausts of motor cars. The factories seep down clouds of sooty vapor. Beauty has been fading earlier and earlier.

For, despite the dust and impurities that modern life forces deep down into the skin, we still further impose soaps, creams, lotions and cosmetics. Have you assurance that tired Nature can expel the added burden in the pores?

Your Skin Must Breathe

These impurities, lodged at the very bottom of the pores, cause practically all complexion blemishes—blackheads, dry skin, enlarged pores, oily skin, pimples and sallowness.

These impurities must come out. Nothing put on the face can possibly be of benefit if the pores beneath are clogged, and to-day they are clogged as they never were before.

A skin cannot be healthy, a complexion cannot be beautiful, if clogged pores do not permit the skin to breathe, to eliminate the waste matter. When the pores are free and functioning the complexion has a natural glow. When they are clogged, fermentation sets in, the face sinks into sallowness, wrinkles and blemishes.

Old Treatments Fail

Women have turned in desperation to massage, the vigorous action of human hands. But unscientific face massage has made more old women than age. Under guise of a benefit, it is a wholesale destroyer of beauty. To parboil your skin with half scalding water, and knead and maul the muscles of your face is bound to be injurious. A minute's thought will tell you so. It stands to reason that it breaks down tissue. Massaging will not even cleanse properly, that is down to the bottom of the pores. It merely slicks off the surface. It does not remove dirt, foreign substances and impurities from the place where they do the real damage—down below the surface of the skin. Your Beauty Specialist will tell you so.

Vivaudou's Discovery

Very recent has been the complete change in beauty method by the best specialists and parlors. Victor Vivaudou, famous perfumer, discovered that the best Beauty Shops in this country were using a preparation so wonderful and immediate in its effects upon the complexion, that he arranged for its sole distribution in the home. He says, "Here in America, I have found the one thing which ladies in Paris and all over the world have yearned for—a care of the complexion which is at once natural, convenient and successful—MINERALAVA.

"I have seen its amazing benefits—its amazing success. It is delightful to use. No more wonderful contribution to comfort and cleanliness has ever been devised!"

Answers Modern Needs

Mineralava is the one way to a good complexion—the best way—so startling, so revolutionary in idea, so different from any treatment that you have known that you cannot afford not to know it—to try it.

Instead of being just one more thing to put on the face, to rub in the face, adding to the accumulation of grease and impurities in the pores, Mineralava takes out. It cleanses the clogged pores—washes off—and is gone, all in twelve minutes.

What Mineralava Does

Mineralava, Nature's Beauty Clay, originated by Mrs. M. G. Scott and perfected by her through 23 years of scientific research and experiment, is applied wet to the face, neck and hands, and accomplishes two important things—impossible with other preparations. It draws impurities from the pores and it tightens sagging muscles.

As it dries it contracts, and you can feel its medicinal ingredients penetrating the depths of the pores. You can feel it withdrawing foreign matter, leaving the pores free and clean.

You can feel the pores being smoothed out. You can feel the flabby skin being made tight and firm. You can feel the cleansing purifying blood tingling through each tiny vein. When Mineralava is thoroughly dry, cold water easily removes it.

Mineralava—Cold Water Face Finish

Immediately, a blooming youthfulness glows and radiates from the cheeks. The long stifled face pores breathe again.

Mineralava Face Finish is a necessary skin food and tonic, acts as a mild bleach and forms a perfect base for your face powder. It has amazing benefit because you can apply it at the proper time, after the pores are cleansed.

Lasting results follow from the use of Mineralava, the cleanser, Cold Water, the invigorant, and Face Finish, the food—in combination.

Lasting Beauty of Complexion

Continue this treatment regularly twice a week and we guarantee, whether you are sixteen or sixty, a marked improvement in your complexion—reducing blackheads, pimples, enlarged pores, wrinkles, blemishes of all kinds—preserving beauty and youthfulness.

Ask for Mineralava TO-DAY

Go to your druggist or department store to-day and ask for the Mineralava set containing fifteen home treatments. If yours has not got it, do not be satisfied with an imitation. ### STEAMSHIP OFFICERS TELL OF FIRE AT SEA

The battle against the flames lasted for more than an hour. Rosin, lumber and cotton made up a large part of the cargo.

HAYS DIRECTS NEW YORK MAIL THEFT PROBE

Postmaster-General Takes the Charge of Investigation; Valuable Clew Found

By Associated Press.

New York, Oct. 27.—Postmaster-General Hays arrived here today to take personal charge of the investigation of last Monday's registered mail robbery by automobile bandits, who held up a mail truck and escaped with five pouches filled with bonds, securities and currency.

News that the Postmaster-General was coming to take a hand in the case led to reports that the losses were even higher than the $1,000,000 figure intimated by postoffice authorities. The postoffice officials still withheld definite figures, but statements issued by banks and brokerage houses showed a total known loss of $828,925.

This was exclusive of a large shipment of currency reported to have been included in one of the pouches and which was said to have been the main object of the robbers. Most of the bonds and other secures, it was pointed out, were listed in the owners' names and the thieves could scarcely hope to realize on them. It was feared there securities might be destroyed.

Frank Havranck, driver of the looted truck, was called from his home for another questioning by postoffice inspectors today. Havranck has been under almost continual examination since the robbery occurred, and yesterday added important details to his story of the holdup. Among these was the detail of a black automobile, which he said pulled ahead of the mail truck and slowed down, apparently for the purpose of aiding the bandits who came up in a green automobile.

The inspectors also let it be known that Havranck had given them a white muslin laundry bag which he said had been pulled over his head and tied before the bandits rifled his truck. The owner's name had been torn from the bag, but one letter at the end of the name—an "E"—remained, and the bag is regarded as a valuable clew. Havranck also looked over rogues' gallery pictures at police headquarters and selected the photograph of one gunman who, he said, closely resembled one of the holdup men.

MAN HELD FOR FLORIDA POLICE IS RELEASED

Because Florida authorities failed to send for him, Ralph C. Baker, alias "Shorty" Stanley, who was arrested here as a fugitive from justice, has been released. Judge Down in Municipal Court ordered the case against him dismissed after waiting for a reasonable time for the arrival of Florida officers. Baker, according to the police, was charged with stealing an automobile. When the sheriff of Wauchula, Fla., was advised of the arrest he wired Chief Inspector McGarr for photographs of the prisoner. McGarr wired back that he had none. Whereupon the sheriff telegraphed, "What's the matter? Haven't you any photographers in Boston?" Declining to engage in further repartee with the Wauchula sheriff the authorities decided to set Baker free.

LEXINGTON HAS $10,000 FUND FOR PAGEANT

Big Celebration Planned on 150th Anniversary of Town's Historic Battle

The Pageant of Lexington Association has in preparation its second pageant, to be held in June, 1925, as a part of the big celebration of the town to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the battle of Lexington.

J. Willard Hayden, Jr., who promoted the first pageant back in 1918, held on his large estate, Twin Elms, announces that in co-operation with the Lexington Board of Park Commissioners and utilizing the estates of Charles W. Ryder and Harry M. Aldrich, a new pageant setting is being created in the centre of the town, thus eliminating what proved at the last pageant the greatest difficulty, local transportation.

Over one hundred prominent citizens of the town have subscribed to a $10,000 guarantee fund, and a group of citizens are at the present time perfecting the plans, so that in the fall of 1924 it will be possible to submit to the townspeople a complete layout.

The main thought of the pageant organization is to make it a community affair in which every man, woman and child can join, bringing together the various organizations in one common interest — the town united.

AUTOIST KILLS MAN OF 72, SPEEDS ON

Frederick A. Smith of Taunton Left by Side of Road After Accident

Taunton, Oct. 27.—Left in the roadside near his home after being struck by an autoist, who drove away, Frederick A. Smith, seventy-two years old, of No. 466 Winthrop street, Westville, died from internal injuries five minutes after his arrival at the Morton hospital, Taunton.

Police of surrounding cities and towns are searching for the death car and driver.

Smith, an employe of a Westville grocery store, was returning home from a harvest supper at the village church when struck. He was discovered by Reserve Officer James J. Hoffter, returning in an auto from Providence.

The aged man regained consciousness for a minute and in reply to Hoffter's question asking if he had been struck by an auto, nodded his head and sank into unconsciousness.

Hoffter stated that a mile away from where Smith was found he noticed a sedan drawn up side of the road and a man with a flashlight examining a bent right mudguard. He thought nothing of it, he said, until he came on Smith's body. Smith was lying on the right hand side of the road.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Miss Rebecca Smith to Continue Art Study in Paris

By BETTY ALDEN

MISS REBECCA SMITH, of No. 92 Mt. Vernon street, is a much-traveled young person. She no sooner comes back from a jaunt to the Orient than she is off again for another part of the world. Thus the news that she is to sail abroad on November 4 does not come as much of a surprise to her host of friends.

This very attractive daughter of Joseph Lindon Smith, well-known painter, is an artist of no mean ability herself. Before she made her debut only a year ago, Miss Smith was taken to Europe following her graduation from Westover School in Middleboro. With her mother she toured several countries, spending many hours studying in the art galleries. She concluded her European trip with a visit to the headquarters of the American army of occupation in Germany. There Major General Allen, in charge of American troops on the Rhine, delegated an officer of his staff to escort the Boston girl and her mother on a trip of several days over the battlefields of the Western front.

All this for a sub-debt But a very petite, and charming sub-deb, of course!

Then, in December of last year came Rebecca's presentation at the Hotel Somerset, and a decidedly effective and fashionable affair it was. The young debutante's pater had used no little of his artistic ability in the decorations of the ballroom, which was completely transformed for the occasion. Among the most novel features of the decorations were a series of paintings in the Watteau style, done by Mr. Smith, representing brightly-dressed young girls and women. The boxes on each side of the balconies of the ballroom were arranged to represent large baskets of fruits and vegetables in their vivid and varied coloring. Since Miss Smith's party was being given near Christmas time, red and green wreaths had been placed at intervals around the room, in the centre of each a gold letter on a blue background spelling the name of the evening's debutante. Altogether it was a most attractive and originally planned scene and one not to be forgotten by the many society folk who attended it.

Naturally, following her presentation, the talented bud found herself being engulfed in the usual round of gayeties which confront every popular debutante. And being talented, and ambitious as well, Miss Smith joined her father a few months after her "bow" had been made and went on a trip to Egypt to study and paint among the ever-wonderful monuments of antiquity of that far-off country. After almost half a year of hard—if interesting—work and study, the artist returned to America with his daughter, and it was only this month that great praise was bestowed upon their paintings of early Egyptian sculpture exhibited at the Copley Gallery.

Upon her return home last Summer, the debutante-painTress spent some time at Newport, and I hear that the petite Bostonian made no end of admirers during her sojourn at the gay Rhode Island watering place. She was royally entertained by Newport's foremost hostesses and enjoyed herself thoroughly during her brief "play time." Apropos of playing, she is an ardent devotee of tennis and swimming, and at Newport, of course, there was plenty of opportunity for her to indulge in both these sports.

Now comes the news that Rebecca is to sail abroad on November 4 to continue her study of art in Paris, where she plans to remain until next June. Her parents are to sail around the world as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James of New York and Newport aboard the James's widely-paragraphed yacht, the "Aloha." Mr. and Mrs. Smith plan to reach Paris in May, where they will join Miss Smith. Their younger daughter, Frances Smith, is at present at school in Westover, and is to be one of next year's debutantes.

Mrs. Charles Hammond Gibson and her son, Charles H. Gibson, have closed their Summer places at Nahant for the season, where they have been since last May, and have returned to their town residence at No. 137 Beacon street for the Winter.

Mrs. George Cabot Lodge is to spend the Winter with Brigadier-General and Mrs. Charles L. McCawley at their home on New Hampshire avenue in Washington. Last Winter Mrs. Lodge made her home with her father-in-law, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, at his Washington residence on Massachusetts avenue.

Mrs. Apthorp Fuller and her son, Apthorp Fuller of Dover, are soon to leave for Rome, where they expect to spend the Winter. In Rome Mr. Fuller will continue his literary work.

PEVEY FAILS TO QUALIFY FOR ELECTION

Member of Committee on Tufts' Disbarment Out of Cambridge Race

Gilbert A. A. Pevey, former City Solicitor of Cambridge, and now a member of the grievance committee of the Middlesex Bar Association, was barred from participating in the Cambridge mayoralty fight.

The attempt of a number of Republicans to put his name on the ballot failed at the last moment as the result of a decision of the Ballot Commissioners that 543 names were necessary. Pevey's supporters had secured only 507.

Five men obtained places on the ballot. They were Edward W. Quinn, the present Mayor, Dr. John F. Goode, a member of the City Council; Representative Julius Meyers, Former City Solicitor James F. Aylward, and Former Representative John A. Keliehor.

How Touchstone Told Time

When Touchstone met Jaques in the Forest of Arden, he drew forth a pocket sun-dial and moralized on Time. This dial must have looked like a napkin ring with a stem like that of a watch. He probably held it up edgewise toward the sun. A tiny hole was drilled in the upper part of the ring so that a sunbeam could fall upon the inner surface, on which the hours were marked.

The modern watch is the development of an idea that began long before Touchstone's day. Generation after generation of skilled artisans have studied and worked to bring about the perfection of the faithful little time-keeper that ticks away the hours for you.

A watch must be practical; therefore it must be accurate. A watch must be attractive; therefore it must have a beautiful case. Any watch that you may select from our display will fulfil these prime essentials. For we carry only the best of the American and European makes.

THINKS BRITAIN WILL RENEW JAP PACT

Needed to Offset Loss in Prestige Caused by U. S. Program, Declares Diaz

Copyright, 1921, by International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Great Britain, in all probability, will renew the Anglo-Japanese alliance, regardless of the outcome of the conference on the limitation of armament and far eastern questions.

General Armando Diaz, hero of Vittorio-Veneto and a dozen other victories and chief military adviser to the Italian delegation at the forthcoming armament conference, expressed this conviction here today in an exclusive interview granted the International News Service.

Great Britain finds the Japanese alliance necessary, the General believes, in order to offset her loss in naval prestige resulting from the recent large scale construction program adopted by the United States.

Italy is ready to support America to the utmost, the General declared, as she has no interests in the Pacific. However, her functions in the conference will be largely of a moral character. The League of Nations General Diaz regards with skepticism.

"It was a beautiful utopia, impossible of realization," he said.

Throughout the interview, which covered practically every phase of international affairs, General Diaz reflected the high hopes he entertains for the success of the Washington conference.

"I am quite optimistic about the forthcoming meeting," he said.

Discussing home affairs, he stated "The Communistic and Bolshevistic danger in Italy has been much exaggerated, especially in the foreign press. After a few inevitable post-war convulsions, Italy is now settling down to really hard work, and I believe the financial and commercial recovery will be speedy.

"We Italians consider most social problems with the aid of a sense of humor. We have seen so many political ventures that we are skeptical of new social ideas which promise drastic changes."

WITH ASSURED CONFIDENCE OF REICHSTAG

Berlin, Oct. 27 (By the Associated Press).—Parliamentary Reichstag having voted confidence in the new cabinet whose formation was announced yesterday by Chancellor Wirth, has adjourned until November 3.

Before adjourning the Reichstag rejected by a vote of 217 to 120 a resolution presented by the German National and German People's parties vigorously protesting against the recent decision of the Council of the League of Nations on the partition of Upper Silesia.

During the course of his speech to the German legislators yesterday Chancellor Wirth enumerated in detail Germany's case in matters through the Upper Silesian decision declaring that Germany's economic strength "is so undermined that all estimates as to the nation's capabilities to fulfill the reparations demands must again be opened to doubt."

In concluding, the Chancellor said substantially:

"The government regards the latest economic decree of the Entente as an injustice to the German people and an infringement upon the terms of the Treaty of Versailles, which is contradictory to the decision of the four great powers and against which the German government makes the most solemn protest known to international law as a stand of the oppressed."

Man Convicted in Coakley Papers Case Resigns After Twenty Years' Service

After serving for twenty years as a member of the council of the Boston Bar Association, Robert D. Weston, Boston attorney, has resigned from that position.

Mr. Weston in explaining his action stated that it has been taken in view of coming events and possible attacks on the personnel of the Bar Association council, which might have some weight in certain quarters. He stated that his resignation was guided entirely by his own motives.

Weston some time ago was prosecuted by District Attorney Pelletier's office in connection with an alleged larceny of papers said to have been removed by a detective from the office of Daniel H. Coakley. Weston was found guilty of larceny and fined $300. His appeal to the supreme court on the ground of improper instructions of law is still pending.

MAIMED FACES ARE BEING MADE NEW

Restored to Their Original Appearance, American College of Surgeons Is Told

By Associated Press.

Philadelphia, Oct. 27.—Disfigured or maimed faces may be restored to their original appearance by facial surgery, the American College of Surgeons was told by Dr. Vilray P. Blair of St. Louis.

Declaring that a great field confronts surgeons in face reconstruction work, Dr. Blair said that the methods used are similar to those of the sculptor who confines in clay or the tailor who cuts the cloth, adding that he employed an artist who worked continuously with plaster casts.

His method, he said, was to make a plaster cast of the condition of the face, then build the desired features—nose, cheek or even eye socket—in clay, mount the entire face in plaster, then press tinfoil over the wanted features to obtain a pattern. Soft tissue or cartilage is then grafted from the thigh or chest, sewed on and allowed to heal.

These operations have been successful, he said. In [illegible] cases [illegible] are [illegible] half of a face after cancerous growths had to be [illegible].

ASIA LOOKS TO U. S. AS PEACE MAKER

Syud Hossain, on Way From India to Parley, Tells of Hopes in Harding

By RALPH PEYE

Universal Service Staff Correspondent

New York, Oct. 27.—"There is a universal feeling in Asia that the one power which comes to the disarmament conference with clean hands is the United States.

"There is more discord in the world today than ever. The peace is no peace."

"If President Harding can achieve something substantial out of this terribly unpromising material, it will not only be a feather in his cap but a boon to humanity."

Syud Hossain, direct descendant of the prophet of Islam, and one of the prominent journalists of India, is responsible for the above sentiments. Mr. Hossain is in New York on his way to the disarmament conference, in which he has little faith and for which he voices slight hopes for any constructive achievement. He will represent the press of India at the conference.

MUST CHANGE IDEAS.

Americans whose ideas of India and Indians have been gained from the cloth set of Rudyard Kipling will have to reconstruct their ideas after hearing this shrewd young Indian, who is to lecture here after the conference.

A short interview with him disperses forever all ideas of the tinkle of temple bells on the road to Mandalay. He gives the immediate impression of modernism, of English tailor, of an intensely cultured mind and of an absolute cosmopolitanism. One would never associate him with an elephant. One would certainly associate him with an automobile.

A definite distrust of England lies back of Mr Hossain's opinion regarding the possibility of universal disarmament and this distrust, he says, finds ample warrant in the actions of the British today at Constantinople.

In the course of half an hour's talk he twisted the British lion's tail into a corkscrew.

CONSTANTINOPLE AT STAKE.

"Since the signing of the armistice," he said, "there has been continual fighting in Turkey and in Asia Minor. This will involve not only the future of Turkey, but more important, it involves the future of Constantinople, which Napoleon called the 'key of the world.'

"The theory is that the Allies are in possession of Constantinople pending the ratification of the treaty of Sevres, but the fact is that the British are in military occupancy of Constantinople. The Sultan is their prisoner and the guns of British battleships are trained on the palace. The de facto owners of Constantinople today are the British. And I doubt if they will ever let go England wants Constantinople.

"Naturally, France does not like this, but France is under such obligations to England that she cannot openly protest.

NO PEACE IN BALKANS.

"It is an important fact that in all human probability there is no early chance of the treaty ever being ratified any more than the Treaty of Versailles has been ratified by the United States. It is three years since the armistice and no peace has yet been signed between the Turkish Empire and any one of the Allies. We have no peace today in southeastern Europe and everybody knows that so long as there is no peace in the Balkans there can be no peace in Europe, and when Europe is seething with war and militarism there can be no peace in the world.

"What is America doing?

"What does America know?

"The great European powers are engaged today in precisely the same old competitive and aggressive imperialism as that which culminated in the great war. The same old intrigues, the same old secret diplomacy, the same old mania for grabbing more and more of other people's territories, and exploiting foreign peoples are going on today if anything with increased intensity and reckless cynism.

RELIANCE ON AMERICA.

"Can there be peace in the world on those terms? Can any man of ordinary common sense believe that when great powers are engaged in keen and hostile competition in different parts of the world, they can be ancors when they sit down in a round-table conference to discuss disarmament?

"Universal feeling in Asia is that the one power which comes to the disarmament conference with clean hands is the United States; and the responsibility of the United States is correspondingly great; if President Harding can achieve something substantial out of this terribly unpromising material it will not only be a feather in his cap but a boon to humanity. But nothing will be achieved unless we go back once again inexorably to first principles.

"If there is to be real international good will and true comradeship among nations, some means will have to be found to abate the anti-social and anarchistian ambitions of the great European powers and their sordid and fratricidal rivalries, the intrigues and struggles. Let America persist in helping forward the march of humanity."

MOTION PICTURE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Move for Independent Companies Formed by Film Players Is Growing

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

MORE than one motion picture player feels that to do a thing right, do it yourself. New companies formed to exploit special players crop up every day.

Among the newest of these is an independent producing concern organized by Fred Niblo (his success in directing the Douglas Fairbanks feature picture "The Three Musketeers," is prompting his backers to urge him to start immediately on his own productions. This plan is not a new one but one that was postponed in order to make the Fairbanks picture, since "The Virginian" is not to be filmed for the present, there is nothing to prevent Niblo from going ahead.

Another to consider "doing it herself" is Elinor Glyn. At present she is under contract with Famous Players-Lasky to write original stories for them, but as soon as she completes this work she will, it is rumored, have her own company. Madame Glyn outlines her plans like this:

"I write my novels. They are tremendously successful. People like them as they are, as I have created them. I should like just once to transfer those books to the screen exactly as I see them—exactly—and see if the things I see and know and that make my books so successful wouldn't equally delight the people on the screen."

Lois Madge Evans, too, will be starred in her own company by the Worth While Pictures, Incorporated. No definite announcements have been sent out regarding her plans, but she will no doubt play the child she has been given. In the future expect to see Miss Evans as a sub-flapper.

WESLEY BARRY LEAVES FILMS.

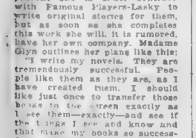
WESLEY BARRY is another to emerge into the glare of the footlights.



WESLEY BARRY

He will probably appear in the role of the detective in the O'Higgins-Ford comedy, "The Dummy," which was written on Broadway some years ago. This part was originally played by Ernest Truex.

The stage will not be exactly new to Barry because he played the title role of the Booth Tarkington comedy, "Penrod," last season at a theatre in Los Angeles. As do from that, though, he has only appeared on the screen.

GRAVES RIGHS UP.

THOUGH Ralph Graves is under contract with D. W. Griffith, the director has released him temporarily that he may appear in other productions until "The Two Orphans" is completed.

Graves was quickly snapped up to appear in the next Raoul Walsh picture featuring Miriam Cooper, "Kindred of the Dust." As soon as that was finished the Griffith forces signed him up to move his grease paint over to that lot in order to play the leading role in "Sent and Out" in which he will be supported by Charles Mason, Harris Gilliland, C. H. Leasure, Elinor Hancock and Florence Drew.

H. B. WARNER ON STAGE.

STILL another who is through with the films is H. B. Warner, one time picture star. Now he is rehearsing for the Broadway opening of Cosmo Hamilton's new drama, "Dunegan."

On the other hand, we hear of a player who is deserting the footlights for world fame in pictures. This is Carlyle Blackwell who, like at present, Earle Boothwell, Blackwell was well known as a leading man with Edith Storey and Jane Rividge in the World productions but since that time has been devoting his time to stage appearances. In the future he will appear in character roles rather than romantic ones.

CHELSEA MAN GETS 2 YEARS FOR BURGLARY

Nicholas Aratta of Chelsea was sentenced to two years in the House of Correction by Judge Dowd in Central Court Tuesday and entered the plea of guilty of Assistant District Attorney Stevens. No. 2 Pearson street, Back Bay, a restaurant keeper of that section, was charged with the larceny of $8,132. The police believe that two others, in connection with the break-

Protege of Mary Garden Now With the "Rose Girl"

MAGUERITE LAMARE

PRIMA DONNA IS A FORMER BOSTON GIRL

Marguerite Lamare a Daughter of Actress Who Played at the Museum

There is a lot of local interest in Marguerite Lamare, the prima donna at "The Rose Girl" performance at the Wilbur Theatre, because she is a member of an old Boston family though she has lived most of her life in France.

Miss Lamare is the daughter of Ethelyn Friend, who was the ingenue at the old Boston Museum during the last two seasons of that famous stock company, and Lamare Middleton, who for a score of years was the Paris correspondent for the Chicago Daily News. She received her only English schooling at the Pierce school in Brookline.

Miss Lamare's father was a Harvard man of the class of '95, he went upon the stage in Paris under the tutilage of Sarah Bernhardt, but her beautiful singing voice soon drew her into music.

It was Mary Garden who brought her to this country and added her to the Chicago opera personnel. But Miss Lamare rather prefers light opera and enjoys her role in "The Rose Girl," very much.

DONNELL READY TO OPEN TOMB OF SEARLES

Lawrence, Oct. 27—District Attorney S. Howard Donnell announces that an autopsy on the body of the late millionaire, Edward D. Searles, will positively take place between now and Saturday. Work was begun yesterday, it is said, on the Searles tomb at Pine Lodge, Methuen the late home of bearing, to disinter remains. The body will be taken from the ground to seek traces of poison which it was charged in an anonymous letter had caused Searles' death.

A story that the autopsy on the body of Searles was to be abandoned by the county authorities had received sharp in the week because of statements credited friends of the late millionaire, who are said to be personally opposed to the exam

AT WORK ON CRYPT.

It was learned yesterday that Police Officer Richard P. Griffin, who has been given charge of the exhumation of the body and the autopsy, had already begun a final move to disinter the body. Men employed about the estate at stone masons, it was reported, had cut through the cement wall of the crypt containing the body of Searles to prepare for the removal of the body when the order is given.

State Officer Griffin has been in constant touch with Dr. George R. Magrath of Boston, who will represent the county at the autopsy. Dr. Magrath's office declined to say when the autopsy will be held in Lawrence. It is reported that Dr. Magrath will now come to Methuen to assist Dr. George W. Dow, local medical examiner, in the autopsy, which will consist chiefly of the removal of the organs.

AUTOPSY AT METHUEN.

The belief is that the autopsy will take place at Pine Lodge to eliminate the necessity of transporting the remains to Boston, or at Dowgate Morgue in Methuen. Dr. Dow has returned from New York.

NEW MINISTER GIVEN WELCOME IN LEXINGTON

Lieutenant-Governor Alvin T. Fuller delivered the address welcoming the Rev J. H. Jenner of St. John N. B., to this State, during the installation ceremonies of Mr. Jenner as pastor of the Lexington First Baptist Church, before an audience that filled the church. George E. Bigger was the presiding officer. The invocation was made by the Rev Lemuel P. Mills, rector of the Church of Our Redeemer (Episcopal), in Lexington, and the Scriptures were read by the Rev. John Hills Wilson, minister of the Lexington First Parish Unitarian Church.

WITNESSES SAY SCHOOL HEADS MADE LIQUOR

Tell at Hearing of Moonshine and Brutality in Hampton County Institution

Springfield Oct 27.—Moonshine was openly made and consumed at the Hampden County Training School for Boys, according to testimony presented by former employes and others at the initial hearing in the Court House before a joint committee of the House and Senate, investigating alleged conditions at the school.

Witnesses testified that officials knew how to make "good stuff" and that boys occasionally were treated at the institution now under fire.

The probe is the result of charges made against the Hampden County Commissioners by Attorney A. P. Connor, of this city who succeeded in having an official investigation started by the Senate and House, after the commissioners, he alleged, had refused to grant a hearing on his alleged expose of conditions at the Training School.

The hearing will be resumed today at 9 30, and it was expected to consume several days.

BOYS SEVERELY WHIPPED.

During the progress of the hearing Senator Alvin E. Bliss of Malden, chairman of the joint committee, declared that Connor had submitted every proof that degeneracy existed at the school.

This was after Mrs. Margaret Sabine of No 4 Pershing terrace, former nurse employed at the school, had testified of degeneracy among the boys. She declared she had reported the matter to the superintendent, but no attention was paid to her. She said she saw bruised backs of boys after they had been whipped, she said. In one case, a boy's shirt had been taken from his body.

The use of cold water for minor offenses was also testified to.

An agent superintendent Haskell was drunk on duty, one witness testified. Cigars was allowed to have been one form of drink among attendants and guards.

WRESTLES WITH BOY.

Sensational testimony regarding the conduct of a Mr and Mrs. Pitts attendants was introduced. One witness declared Mrs Pitts stated she could wrestle any boy in the school and could carry it out. It was said a boy all over the body [illegible] by such an unjust result. It was that the husband was called separated the pair, and beat the boy.

Other brutalities were testified to. Profane and indecent language, unsanitary conditions and lack of religious training were urged.

Twenty boys, all inmates, testified at the opening hearing.

SEVEN SEAMEN, ADRIFT FOR HOURS, RESCUED

Rockport, Me., Oct. 27—Seal caravans, the pictures of which will be [illegible] schooner Henry F. Kreger, which was wrecked on Pollock Rip shoals today, were rescued after drifting several hours in a small boat and brought to a coast guard station on Nauset.

The seamen were picked up the schooner Alice Hilton and later were taken off that vessel by the coast guards of the Great Point station and brought to Nauset. The power in the small boat failed them and they had row for [illegible] fifteen miles before the party picked up.

SALE OF CAMP DEVENS BUILDINGS IS HALTED

No further steps will be taken for leasing real estate or buildings at Camp Devens, was ordered yesterday at First Corps Area from the office of the Adjutant General in Washington. This prevents the disposal of some buildings at the cantonment which were about to be sold or leased and prevents the transfer of the camp from the command of Major-General C. R. Edwards to that of replacement of the quartermaster-general at Washington which was proposed at first. Assistant Secretary of War Wainwright looked over the camp and advised no change in its command.

WIDOW OF TITANIC VICTIM IS MARRIED

New York, Oct. 27.—Mrs Lillian Kirby, widow of Clarence Moore, artist who was drowned on the Titanic, has become the bride of Frank C. Flanagan of Toronto, according to cards received here. The wedding took place at Corpus Christi Church, London, and the couple are now living at No. 19 Linfield Gardens, that city. Mrs. Flanagan was Miss Lillian Gottlieb before her marriage to Klein. They had a son, 4 hilip, now a theatrical manager, and Colonel Kirby's second was "The Music Master," which made David Warfield famous.

FORBES DENIES CRITICISM OF PHYSICIANS

Colonel Declares He Never Made Slighting Statement Against Parker Hill Doctors

Colonel Charles R. Forbes, director of the United States Veterans Bureau at Washington, says he never said that the medical officers and doctors at Parker Hill Hospital were "lacking in that personal touch" so necessary in the work of caring for disabled soldiers.

While here on an inspection trip recently he was quoted as having said just that, among other things. The Boston American was requested by a delegation of patients to publish a statement, signed my more than 100 of the boys in the hospital, which praised Major R. W. Browne, doctor in charge of the institution and Captain T. L. Storey, executive officer, for their splendid personal interest in the affairs of the disabled.

The resolution was published and a copy forwarded to Colonel Forbes.

Congressman James A Gallivan, who keeps in close touch with the boys in the hospital, protested to Colonel Forbes that he must have been misinformed and asked him for his reason for making such a statement. The head of the Veterans Bureau repudiates the statement attributed to him and the following is an excerpt from his reply to the Congressman:

"I made no criticisms of the personnel of the hospital except during my inspection of the place a representative of the American Legion brought to my attention the lack of certain plumbing installation, which I found to be true. . . . I fear you have been unnecessarily disturbed. I assure you there is no justification for any statement from me that should cause anyone anxiety."

Another statement in the letter of Colonel Forbes to Congressman Gallivan that will please the disabled soldiers and their friends is this:

"I believe you need have no fear of my criticism in connection with the Parker Hill Hospital, but, as you know, we hope that we will soon have a sufficient number of government owned institutions whereby we can take care of our own beneficiaries without using leased properties."

This statement is taken to mean that the government intends to buy the Elks section property from that order and continue it as a United States institution for veterans suffering from tuberculosis, as explained in the Boston American.

BANGOR CHURCH CALLS DORCHESTER PASTOR

Booklovers' Opportunity in New $5,000 Test

One week from next Monday, on November 7, the Boston American begins its $5,000 Book Title Test.

A picture game, based upon the titles of well-known books.

There will be one picture every day for a period of sixty days. Not counting the Sundays. Each picture will represent the name of a book.

You will find a name for each picture, write it upon the dotted line, save all pictures until the close of the Test, send them in and, if you have chosen your titles wisely, share in the distribution of $5,000 among Boston American readers.

Perhaps you took part in the previous tests, the Movie Play Title and the Songs of the World Title Test. If so, even though you failed to finish among the winners of large amounts, you feel that you have mastered the artist's methods, are "outo his pitching," and want another chance at him. This will be your opportunity!

There will be one big award of $1,000. Others of $750, $500, $400 and so on. Scores of smaller amounts. A royal chance for everybody!

Tell your friends about the new tests. Advise them to come in. Tell them why YOU like the Boston American.

And remember the date: Monday, November 7.

RICH CALLS R.R. STRIKE MENACE TO 98 P. C.

Would Be a Blow at Every Man's Job, He Tells Associated Industries

The threatened railroad strike would be a strike against every man's job, against the health, security and welfare of every individual in the community," Attorney Edgar J. Rich told the transportation section of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, in conference at the Copley-Plaza today.

"Production cannot go on if transportation of raw materials and fuel is crippled," he continued.

"It is a strike against the health and welfare of the people because not only will many be without the means of buying the necessities of life through lack of employment, but all will be obliged to pay more for such necessaries."

Attorney Rich was the principal speaker at the transportation section conference, which was one of a number of by-meetings in connection with the two-day meeting of the Associated Industries which began today.

Some of these various by-meetings were held in the Copley-Plaza and others in the Hotel Westminster.

Attorney Rich, who is corporation counsel of the Associated Industries, said of the strike:

"There is only one issue. Shall two per cent. of the people of the United States jeopardize the welfare of the other 98 per cent.?

"SOLID SUPPORT."

"The issue is sharply drawn and must be resolutely met. The railroads will have the solid support of the industries in their efforts to perform transportation service."

Attorney Rich concluded with an optimistic picture of the future as it will affect the railroads. He said that when conditions become normal roads outside New England would become solvent again and have their credit restored. Regarding the New England lines, he said he believed they would become solvent, but that it would be some time before a surplus could be accumulated and credit restored.

Congressman Samuel E. Winslow, who is chairman of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, talked on "Some Features of Federal Legislation Bearing on Industrial Interests."

The industrial relations section of the Associated Industries met at the same hour in the ballroom of the Hotel Westminster. Joseph K. Milliken, treasurer of the Mount Hope Finishing Company, North Dighton, presided.

SERVICE WORK.

Colonel Benjamin A. Franklin, vice-president of the Strathmore Paper Company of Mittineague, spoke on the subject, "Why Maintain Employment and Service Work in Industry Now?" He said:

"It might appear that the present condition of depression would tend since it has made employes if possible more discontented through reduction in wages, even if more fearful of losing their jobs, to make service departments even more valuable and necessary.

"After all, in times of prosperity or depression industry will always have to keep these employes contented; it can best do this through some form of employment and service work."

John H. Goss, vice president of the Beovill Manufacturing Company, Waterbury, Ct., discussed the same question from the standpoint of the factory manager.

The insurance section of the Associated Industries met in the State dining-room at the Copley-Plaza. Harold F. Sweet of the R. F. Simmons Company, Attleboro, presided. Thomas E. Sears, Jr., was a speaker of the Associated Industries and president Thomas E. Sears, Inc., Boston, discussed "Insurance Company Reserves and Practices." E. V. French, president of the Arkwright Mutual Fire Insurance Company, Boston, spoke on "Fire Insurance and Fire Protection." Attorney Edward C. Stone of Boston on "Casualty Insurance," and William W. Winter of New York on "Marine Insurance, as It Relates to Foreign Trade."

The delegates had a luncheon in the Copley-Plaza ballroom after the morning sessions and heard Dr. Charles Aubrey Eaton of the Cleveland plant of the General Electric Company discuss "The Prerequisites of an Industrial Revival."

After that section conferences were resumed.

BROWN BEAR SURE TO GIVE YALE BULLDOG TOUGH BATTLE

By CHARLES E. PARKER

The Bruins of Brown are accorded their second last chance to gain a niche in this year's football hall of fame this week.

It comes in the annual game with Yale at New Haven, and, if Brown falls there, the sole remaining opportunity to win football glory this season will be found in the Harvard contest two weeks hence, and even success in the latter contest may be considerably tempered should Harvard employ a substitute eleven as has been the case in other years.

Great things were expected of the Bruins at the start of the current season. Even Coach Robinson, a confirmed pessimist when questioned as to Brown's football prospects, viewed with a smile the fine appearing squad that answered his call to practice, and was equally enthusiastic over the neat arrangement in the Brown gridiron schedule, which found seemingly "soft" opponents sandwiched restfully in between the big games on his program.

* * *

"Three easy games, then Syracuse; one easy game, then Yale; another easy game, and then Harvard," was the way the schedule read. Yet Coach "Bobbie" found his team hard pressed in winning the first three "easy" contests; found his team outclassed in its first big game with Syracuse; found Springfield, another supposedly "soft" team, holding the Bruins to a scoreless tie, and found the Yale game of this week taking on proportions that few thought possible.

* * *

This lack of pronounced success may be traced to two factors. One is the inexperience of "Bobbie's" excellent appearing material, for Brown, like Harvard, Dartmouth, Boston College and other institutions lost through graduation and other causes the majority of last year's regulars and has been forced to employ men of varsity experience in first string positions.

The second is the condition which for long has been imposed upon Brown football by the Brown faculty.

* * *

Only one afternoon in the week, according to Coach Robinson, are the men able to practice as a team. Wednesday is that afternoon, for on other days of the week many of his players are engaged in classroom work until four o'clock and seldom reach Andrew's Field and dress for practice before 5 o'clock in the evening, when it is much too late to accomplish the necessary drills.

* * *

The problem of developing green players is in itself one of considerable proportions, and with opportunity for such developing is curtailed it constitutes a task almost impossible of successful completion.

* * *

A Brown team with a much more respectable record to its credit than 6 to 10 by Yale last season, and the Yale team this year is a much more capable organization than the 1920 Eli array. Consequently Brown's chance of gaining headline-and-first-page-in-Sunday's-newspapers appears most uncertain.

* * *

The majority of the Bruin cripples who were kept on the sidelines last week are now ready for action. Harry Cross and Reggie Batty were granted short opportunities to play in the Army game; Norris, Yale's most promising centre, is reported in sharp physical condition, while Capt. Herr, both letter men of last year, so there should be no weak spots in the Eli line. There are none in the backfield, for Yale is particularly well fortified in backfield material with two complete sets of able backs and two or three spare men of quality.

* * *

And Yale can put the pressure on if necessary, for a comparatively easy game with Maryland is scheduled for next week in which substitute players should qualify in upholding Yale's returning football prestige.

* * *

Will Boston College stage a "comeback?" This question is being asked by M. I. rooters as Coach Frank Cavanaugh's team approaches the first of its games in the Catholic college circuit.

* * *

B. C.'s opponent in this game is the Fordham team—and quite a Fordham team, so they say, despite the fact the as-yet-unconquered Lafayette eleven took its measure last week.

* * *

Fordham, it seems, had no representative at an Catholic college meeting where Boston College, Holy Cross and Georgetown agreed to enforce the one-year resident rule as regards transfer students, and, not being bound by that agreement, Fordham seems to have decided to profit by their position

* * *

In Ra Sheup is Geits, who played for Detroit last Fall; Thornton, who saw service with Syracuse last year and with Notre Dame the year before, and others whose college loyalty seems to shift with the gay abandon of the well-known wind.

* * *

Under the direction of John Dunne, formerly of Lafayette, and Charley Brickley, who coached Johns Hopkins and Boston College after graduating from Harvard, the Fordham team has shown some flashes of capable football. It has not proved an unbeatable eleven, however, and is of about the right calibre to test the "come-back" powers of a team that has sustained an unaccustomed defeat.

* * *

B. C. players are still aching from the hard play of the Detroit team and one or two of the first string men may not be able to oppose Fordham, but Fordham did not mistake the Lafayette game for a picnic and undoubtedly several of its stars are nursing tender spots

* * *

New Yorkers visiting the Polo Grounds on Saturday will see in action a player who last year made a record for gameness.

* * *

He is Barron of Georgia Tech, whose team engaged Penn State in a game that may have considerable bearing on the final ranking of this season's leading teams.

* * *

In his last Fall, Barron sustained a broken jaw, but against the advice of surgeons and friends refused to quit the great college pastime. He had concentrated a brace which held the broken bones in place, and although he was unable to take solid food throughout the season he played in every Georgia Tech contest, and sensibly that he was ranked as one of the leading backfield men of the season.

* * *

This year he is no longer his only food. He is eating meat and other energy-producing food, and, according to reports from Atlanta, is proving a greater star than ever.

* * *

Word comes from Centre College that "Red" Roberts plays the role of offensive leader and defensive end or is it defensive tackle and offensive end? In any event it prompts the query, "Red" Roberts taught "Bad" the fallacy of attempting to tackle an opponent by employing only his thumb and forefinger? "Red" is big enough and active enough to make a real lineman, but he needed, and may still need, a lot of coaching—an awful lot of coaching.

* * *

Harvard players, journeying to Princeton this week, probably will get a better line on Princeton plays than could have been the case last week of the week before, for Chicago and the Navy were stopping all of Princeton's "stuff" before it got started.

* * *

Both the Army and the Navy owe Ray Van Orman, the old Cornell end, a vote of thanks, for unwittingly and probably unwillingly he has supplied them with leading backfield stars in "Van," as he is familiarly known. In head coach at Johns Hopkins, and Marchus, the Navy's backfield ace, and Woods, the Army's all-around backfield man, are products of his coaching. Woods, by the way, was elected captain of "Van's" team for this season and seemed enthusiastic over the honor until the Army recruiting service singled him out as a valuable addition to our fighting forces

COMMERCE FAVORITE TO BEAT LATIN TODAY

By FRED C. LANE.

Commerce High has only to repeat its victory of last season over Boston Latin the scrimmages during the past week to insure victory, according to Coach Sherlock who is the year out to even matters for the defeat pinned on the team last year.

Followers of the sport will have their game last season will be over bar the grueling contest. Latin was on the long end of a 9 to 6 score, but the Commerce rooters hope to turn the tables today.

Neither team has scored in scholastic world since the Thanksgiving day battle, but the bitter rivalry will attract a big crowd to Braves Field. Norwood and Mansfield high both ran up comparatively heavy scores on their opponents, but Commerce plan who in turn lambasted Cushing Acad., 32 to 0.

In other words, Commerce has played erratic football, but Coach Sherlock, through exceptionally hard work this week, has got the team working in a much smoother fashion. Hadley, Oliver and Levinson have been making long runs in scrimmage with the second team and all three hope to show their heels to the secondary defence of Latin tonight.

* * *

When the question comes up at the close of the season of which is the best of the New England schools for the play-off with schools from other States strong bids will be made by teams in these parts that formerly were still at the grid season's end.

* * *

More teams are coming down the home stretch with clean slates this season than for several years. Waltham, Lynn Classical, Beverly, Peabody, Haverhill, Malden, Newton and Worcester are some in this locality that are holding short clean heads and are capable of meeting any of the invading foemen. Four games and in some cases five must yet be played this season by each of these elevens. No doubt they will eliminate a few from the running. After this simmering process is over there will be enough left to make the selection of the best team a difficult task

* * *

Provise High of Maywood, Ill., will not play Marblehead in an interstate game this season on account of the failure to financial enterprise of other years have so voted. Trimmings by Lynn Classical and Peabody blasted the hopes of the football supporters in Marblehead so that the proposed contest will be postponed until next year.

* * *

English High's win over Dean and West Roxbury's triumph over Hyde Park, doubling the district championship, were real mid-week surprises. Neither team was favored to win by close followers of the sport. West Roxbury's fine showing and Dean's this season on the gridiron can easily be attributed to Coach Duffy.

* * *

Plans are being formulated at Everett to make the Malden game one to be forgotten. Very few Malden teams have carried off the short end when playing Everett but this season a eleven has all the appearance of a championship outfit.

* * *

Everett has lost some closely contested games and if the assistance that has been given to Coach Nason this past week for this game brings results, another even contest may be expected for Malden will enter the fray with its full strength.

* * *

Beverly High, only two years a member of the North Shore League, threatens to carry off the flag in the seashore race this Fall. Five victories have been recorded to date and the odds are in their favor to win from Lynn Classical Saturday. Coach Fitzgibbons is a former star of Exeter and also of Beverly. The backfield is a running combination that has raised havoc with the best schoolboy lines confronted this Fall.

DOYLE AND TIPLITZ WIN BY KAYO ROUTE

By JACK CONWAY.

Ambitious bonfighters faded out of the picture at the Arena A. C.'s show with the same frequency that our best little citizens will be asking for beer and wine prescriptions in a few days. The seconds were so busy carrying robust ring men to their corners that it looked like the rehearsal of a stretcher squad of some Red Cross unit.

The boys who looked for action in the ring got it by watching the various referees, who did duty, exercise their pitching arms as they went through the act of counting out Bully Boy Brewsters.

Paul Doyle was more generous and consumed most of two rounds in convincing Joe Florio of New York that a bird can knock 'em for a flock of Brickleys in the bush league circuit without being able to make a single first down when performing under the main tent.

* * *

Young Gradwell wasn't in so much of a hurry as he took the regulation ten rounds to win over Harry (Kid) Brown of Philadelphia. And then everybody wasn't pleased as a lot of young men who can tell you the real names of all of our punch dispensers thought Brown won. Being very ordinary, we agree with the judges' verdict though we would have liked to have seen a real decision. The Boxing Commission, however, has put draws in the same class with boutch and home brew. You can't get one even with a prescription.

* * *

Paul Doyle was originally billed to muss up Walter Mohr. The latter apparently has a social engagement for the week-end and so didn't want to have his features molested. He took a train for Albany, or some other distant place, instead of coming to Boston somebody then discovered Joe Florio, an ex-amateur champion.

Florio is a strong, rugged youth. But we know of a lot of other husky boys, but none of them would have any license to hop into a ring with Doyle. Being charitable the New England welterweight champion let his opponent linger into the second round. A left hook to the jaw then gave Florio all the sensation experienced by George Carpentier when Dempsey splashed him with a broadside on Jersey.

The stretcher squad then put in an appearance.

* * *

Tiplitz and Brown next entered the ring. Brown is a real fighter. He has met the best men in the lightweight class and has won as many bouts as Wilson received gifts when he did his European glide. Tiplitz must have been in a hurry to go some place as he sailed to close quarters, walloped away at his rival's body and then whanged a left hook to the jaw and grabbed all the glory. Brown was as cold as a Ponzi note after the big shot went over. Apparently a punch to the jaw is the only thing that separates a fighter from a peaceful sleep.

* * *

Young Gradwell and Harry (Kid) Brown made the fans cheer. Gradwell grabbed a big lead in the early rounds. Brown then flashed, but finished just outside of the money.

There will be an all-star show at the Arena next Wednesday night. Eddie Shevlin will battle Willie Ryan of Newark in the feature bout. Jimmy White will oppose Marty Cross, Chick Burns will collide with Dick Loadman, while Young Donahue will have Johnny Curley as an opponent.

* * *

Four classes of amateur boxers will perform tomorrow night under the auspices of the St. Joseph's T. A. Society in Commercial Hall. President Bill Luddy, of the West End organization, announces that entries are being received in considerable numbers per hours in the 105, 115, 125 and 135-pound classes.

At the last session of the club the bouts in the 115-pound class furnished all the fireworks. Henry Lewis, of the North End, was the ultimate winner but not until after he and a lad from Lynn had furnished one of the finest bouts ever seen in the home of action. Both Ford and his opponent have promised to enter again for this week's show.

President Cuddy has authenticated the 125-pound class for the 140-pound event which was on the last card. Here is this class have evinced a keen desire to shave their waves, hence the return of that event to the list. Indications are that more than forty amateurs will compete.

PENN STATE CAPTAIN OUT OF GEORGIA GAME

State College, Pa., Oct. 27.—Penn State's captain, Snell, is still very weak and will not be able to do any hard work this week. He may make the trip to New York for the game with Georgia Tech, and lead the team on the field.

Knabb, who played almost the whole of the Harvard game at fullback, is showing steady development but is being pushed by Cornwall, the big Williamsport boy who has been shifted from halfback on the second team.

Georgia Tech has a smashing attack and Penn State practice has been held to fight it. Hollahan at right tackle is a star, while Bedenk, Baer, Dunks and Hills work with smoothness and precision.

O'DOWD BEATS LYNCH IN 12-ROUND BATTLE

New York, Oct. 27.—Joe Lynch the New York boxer who has his unbeaten tamweight championship for several months winning from Jimmy the Itch in bouts with Pete Herman of New Orleans, has been halted by a newcomer in his effort to retain the title.

Phil O'Dowd of Columbus, Ohio, whose ring prowess had been unknown in the East, sailed into the former champion in a fast 12-round bout last night and easily won the judges' decision. Johnny Buff, present holder of the bantam crown, witnessed the contest.

WORCESTER CLUB BUYS FAMOUS LINE HOUSE

Webster, Oct. 27.—The Webster Line House, famous throughout Worcester county in the days before prohibition, has been bought by Henry J Steinburg. The famous old inn was purchased, it is said for a Worcester club, the name of which has not yet been disclosed.

Calman is Tech Coach

SPEED VS. BULK IN FEATURE MAT BOUT

Londos and Rojaski Clash in Main Match at Grand Opera House Tonight

Jimmy Londos and big John Rojaski finished their training in excellent shape and both are confident of winning the verdict in the battle at the Grand Opera House tonight.

The affair is one in which two wrestlers entirely opposite in every way will try to settle which is the better of the pair.

Rojaski, powerful, bulky and game, will pit his brute strength against the speed and stamina of the Greek.

Peter Goulet will come up from Woonsocket with blood in his eye and red hot for his battle with Charley Metro, which will be the semi-final. They also go to a finish one fall to win.

TECH'S CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM RUNS AT SYRACUSE

According to Manager Marshall Waterman the Tech cross-country team will compete in the invitation meet to be held at Syracuse Saturday.

Most of the colleges belonging to the I. C. A. A. except Harvard, Princeton and Penn State, have been invited to send teams to the meet.

Tech is competing in the race as a result of the calling off of the Dartmouth meet which was scheduled for that day. When Dartmouth cancelled its meet with Tech, the manager tried to arrange a race with New Hampshire State, but failed, as its harriers are going to Syracuse also.

Coach Kanaly's men will start for Syracuse tomorrow morning. The team will include Captain Sanborn, Flanders, Hendrie, Robertson and Poore.

WILLIAMSON HURT IN B. U. TEAM SCRIMMAGE

Coach Whelan of Boston University put the eleven through a hard scrimmage yesterday, which resulted in Williamson receiving a slight injury. However, he will be all right for the game with Rhode Island State Saturday at Braves Field.

Lonergan, who was out at the beginning of the week with a weak ankle, was back in uniform. Small showed up exceptionally well yesterday at his position at right end. Worcester played a combination of halfback and end. Coach Whelan considers him one of the best men on the team and depends on his play Saturday.

Says Since Fathers Are Shaving Their Whiskers The Children Aren't Losing So Many of Their Toys

Styles in men's faces are changing, and beards, whiskers and goatees will be worn in the future drawer this Winter.

Fathers should not shave off their beards until after December 25, Mother has to have some place to hide the Christmas presents.

Still, one guy with a heavy bunch of whiskers hit a man and the authorities arrested him for carrying concealed weapons.

A mustache is nothing but an eyebrow which started to grow over the eye but lost the address.

Some mustaches are natural, some are cultivated, but most of them should be prevented.

A person who wants to raise a beard should eat a lot of toast to make the hair grow. It takes meat to grow them and nerve to wear them.

DOUBTFUL IF ROBERTSON IS IN CORNELL GAME

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 27.—Dartmouth's football team had one of its most peculiar workouts here yesterday in preparation for the game tomorrow with Cornell. Captain Jim Robertson and Chick Burke were back in the lineup during part of the signal drill, although it is doubtful if the Green leader starts the game Saturday at Ithaca.

Robertson's nose is recovering quickly and he will be available if needed Saturday, although this was his first appearance in uniform since the Tennessee game nearly two weeks ago. Burke's ankle, which was injured in the Columbia game, is practically better and he will be ready to start against the Big Red team.

The practice was unusually long, lasting until dark. It consisted chiefly of a long signal drill, with the first team running through every play. Forward pass plays were gone over with great care, and once again the first two backfields were drilled in defense for forward passes.

Chuck Calder, who is due to start in Robertson's place, spent a half-hour on kicking, and he, with Siegfried, will take care of all this work for the Green Saturday.

The backfield used in signal practice had Smith at quarter, Burke and Sherrerd and Calder at halfback and Siegfried at fullback. Hall was given at chance at quarter, while Watson was used a while on a few plays, and Edwards went into fullback, taking Siegfried's place.

The squad leaves Hanover this afternoon and will reach Ithaca in time to hold a short practice tomorrow.

Exeter Working Hard for Game With Worcester

Exeter, N. H., Oct. 27.—Exeter's football eleven is working hard in preparation for the game with Worcester Academy at Worcester Saturday and Coach Blake is likely to make some changes in the lineup.

The eleven is handicapped for a quarterback, Captain McGlone is injured, and his successor, Alexander Clement has not come up to the standard.

Marven Cheek, who has played that position in a California school, is being tried this week. He has been playing halfback all season. His place at half is taken by Mark McIntyre of Brookline.

R. N. Jones, veteran guard of the 1917 eleven, is working on right end to displace Hannibal Hamlin, who suffered a broken leg in the Harvard freshman game.

"THAT, Donnie dear, is not enough," Torrie had just calmly replied, slightly in doubt as to what particular city "Ocean Drive" might be said to decorate.

He had failed in the first big want of his existence. And as he stood unequipped to face all such failure, he eventually broke his promise to Torrie and after twice writing to her he footed his huge super-twelve up the valley of the Hudson toward the Great Lakes.

He did not go directly into Canada, for there was still some trace of reason in his madness. But he motored to the border city of Detroit, making that point the rendezvous for repeated impatient ventures along the highways of western Ontario. He was drinking heavily again, and his driving along these highways was not always controlled. This he realized when he came to a sharp turn in the Lake Road a few miles east of Leamington.

There the highway, turning sharply back from the eroded lake cliffs, formed an acute angle which could be safely approached only at a low rate of speed. But low rates of speed were obnoxious to Donnie, even in unknown territory, and the result was that although he saved his car from careening straight out over the cliff edge, he went crashing and uncontrolled into the roadside fence.

He climbed down from the stalled car and walked unsteadily out to the edge of the cliff. There was a sheer fall, he saw, of almost a hundred feet.

Donnie went on his way feeling that all life was against him, that nothing much remained to live for, and that it wouldn't have mattered a great deal even if he had taken that final leap out over the cliff-edge at Death's Curve. Yet before the end of an hour, as he sped eastward he came face to face with Torrie Throne.

He parked the car in a buttonwood grove down a side-road and walked back to meet her. She was nervous and guarded, but she was not altogether antagonistic, for his presence there had at least brought a splash of color into the monotony of her endless and over-drab days. There was satisfaction, too, in the discovery in her power over him. But she insisted on discretion. And as they sat on the running-board of the car, behind the Buttering-leafed grove of buttonwoods, smoking their last cigarettes together, she promised to meet him again in two days' time.

They met again, as arranged, but something in Donnie's bloodshot eyes and the unsteadiness of his hands prompted to make Torrie wary. She cut the meeting short, protesting that she could talk to him only when he was sober. She was equally disturbed in spirit when they met for the third time, the following week.

She sat beside him, with a watchful eye divided between the road and the speedometer dial, knowing that he was not himself, and still further disturbed when he began to quote to her what he described as a poem of Browning's

"I and my mistress, side by side,
Shall be together, breathe, and ride"...

Then he slowed down, not because of her cry of warning, but to reach into the door-pocket beside him and take out a leather covered flask. He needed a nip of brandy, he explained, to steady his nerves.

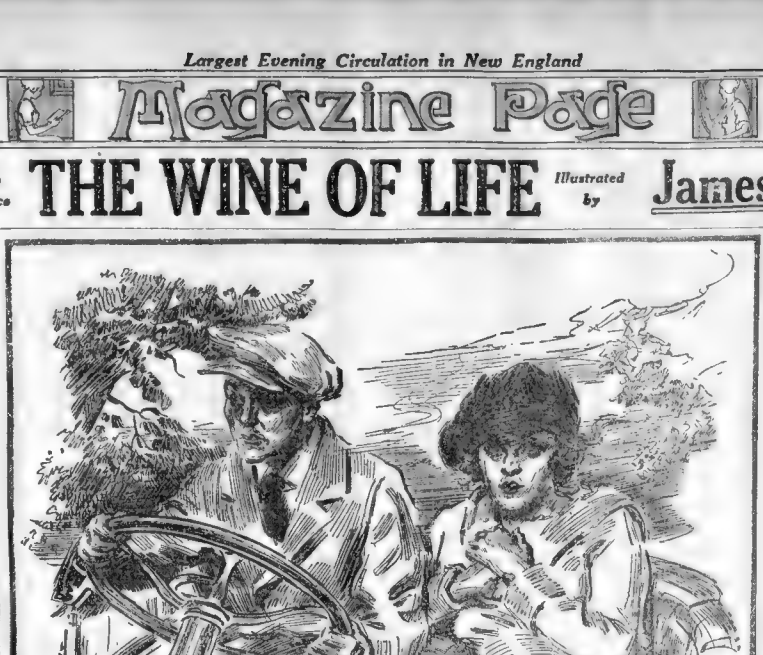
He merely laughed when Torrie, with trouble in her voice, told him to drive slowly. He thrust a toe down on the accelerator, as he had done so often before when some lighter-spirited chorus girl had called out to him: "Step on her tail, Sweetie!" For he liked that feeling of power, the power of a god, under his foot-lever. It transported him to some higher plane.

"Where are we going?" Torrie cried out in alarm, as the over-driven car wheels slewed in the road-dust.

"You're coming with me," was Donnie's deliberate yet shrill-noted response.

"Not today, Donnie dear," she called out, forcing a laugh which was meant to be placatory, for she was beginning to be a little afraid of him.

"You're coming with me!" he sullenly repeated, with his foot once more hard down on the accelerators.



DRAWN BY JAMES MONTGOMERY FLAGG.

The car in its mad flight sped on toward Death's Curve, Donnie deaf to Torrie's protests.

But I can't go with you!" Torrie called out to him, with one hand clinging to her hat-pin. She was leaning forward like a jockey braced against the onrush of the air whipping her body.

"You'll go with no one else," he drunkenly proclaimed, touched with some final essence as he continued to race on, some final essence which was both bitter and sweet to his fevered soul.

"Donnie!" the woman at his side called out, almost in a scream. But she was calling to a man in a trance, with exaltation in his over-open eyes. He did not answer her. Nor did he slacken by a jot the speed of the car.

Torrie had no definite idea of what was ahead of her. But she was alert in both mind and body. And as they went thundering down that stretch of road which turns sharply at what was known to the countryside as Death's Curve, she knew, by one of those incredibly quick deductions which come to even the most elementary minds, that a car travelling at a rate of speed anything like theirs could never keep to the road.

The car itself did not stop. Its driver, held closely in place by the wheel, remained where he sat as the engined monster of steel plunged through the wire fencing, leaped to the cliff-edge, and from there out into space, where it turned in one leisurely half-circle before falling downward into the gravelly shallows of the lake.

Torrie lay for what seemed a long time with her face pressed down against the dusty grass, without even the desire for movement. Then consciousness came back to her, and with it a memory of undefined catastrophe, and with that again a nauseous weakness of the body which she had to fight against. Then her thoughts grew clearer and she sat up. After that she found not even a shadow of doubt with which to console her shaken mind. He must have been killed!

She crawled along the dry grass to the edge-cliff, painfully and slowly, for the barbs of the wire fencing on which she had been thrown, penetrating several thicknesses of clothing, had tore her leg just above the knee. At the lip of the cliff she lay stretched out, face down, studying the monstrous sight of the overturned car, bewilderingly uncouth and complicated in that attitude of visceral betrayals, lying in at least three feet of lake water. He was dead. There could be no doubt of that. Donnie Eastman was dead.

She fought back a momentary feeling of faintness as she edged away from the cliff. Then, with a guilty look back along the road, and with her teeth still chattering, she tore away a portion of her underskirt and with it bound up her cut and bleeding knee.

Then, still watching the road, she crept eastward along the inner fence line, passing through a stretch of woodland, skirting the rail fence of an orchard, and losing herself again in a field of rustling corn much higher than her head.

So she headed north again until she came to the road that ran along the lakeside. There she was overtaken by a red-faced woman driving a small car with its back seat piled high with crates, a red-faced, sedate-souled, homely-mannered woman, who, on noticing her limp, drew up at the roadside and inquired if she could give the girl with the white face and the tortured eyes a lift.

The light had begun to fade by the time she reached the broken stone gate-pillars of Pine-Brae. But on arriving at the house she found, to her great relief, that Owen was not yet back with his load of cement that was needed for the rebuilding of the roof-cellar.

So she repeated her story of the sprained ankle to the startled and sympathetic Ursula Ade, who promptly fell to toting linen bandages and warm water and hot coffee to Torrie's bedroom, supplemented with a precious and never-failing bottle of Liniment from that anxious eyed old servitor's own walnut chest.

A Stirring Narrative of the Influence of Love on the Lives of a Girl and a Man

THE LURE OF RICHES

'A ROMANCE THAT MONEY ONLY SPOILED

By Laura R. Montgomery

EDNA could not keep her eyes off the beautiful, calm face of her elder sister. Jane Fitch had astonished the village ten years before by making a sudden marriage while away on a visit. The married couple had gone abroad almost immediately and this was Jane's first visit home.

After the pleasant leisurely supper Jane had insisted upon washing up. "You must sit down, mother. If you only know how good it seems to be back here and see everything the same. Even Tandy hasn't changed a bit." Jane looked down at the big gray cat.

"My Jane, but you were lucky. To think of marrying a man like that, who took you almost around the world! You can certainly pretend fine"—

"Pretend!" Jane whirled about from the dressing-case. "What do you mean, Edna?"

The younger girl touched a gold-stoppered bottle with almost reverent fingers: "Oh, you know, asking old Pansy Stults about her crochet samples and inquiring about the mortgage on the Methodist Church, as if you cared. You, who have entertained women with titles. I don't see how you ever remembered the names of the common people here back home."

Jane's eyes grew wide with a sudden comprehension. "Tell me, Edna, are you engaged to Will Holloway?"

Edna flushed. "Well, we have a sort of understanding, but when I heard you were coming back I, somehow, held back. It must be wonderful to have loads of money and travel and see"—

Jane's reserved mouth twitched, then the lovely head with its burden of red-gold hair that had first caught the jaded fancy of the rich man was bowed upon the old-fashioned dressing table.

"He was furious when Lucette was born, he feared she would take my time away from him. The night she was taken with croup I was away tending a great dinner, went against my will to avoid a scene, and while I sat talking and smiling at people my baby died."

Will Holloway called that afternoon, "I would love to have you come out to our place, dear," he said cordially. "The red roses are in their prime now." His eyes were on the chubby face of Edna and he failed to see the tragical look that filled the dark eyes of Jane for a second.

Edna saw, however, and she knew that a red rose was the one flower that Jane could not endure. Will's brother Donald had loved Jane before he had been killed in an accident. Jane had married after that, but she never wore roses.

"I cannot spare Jane—while she's here she must stay with us," she cried, "but after she's gone back it"—Edna smiled at her lover—"why, Will, I like roses."

Elephants Raid a Station

We are used to stories of how an elephant occasionally upsets a circus, but it is rare we hear of an orgy of destruction like that which occurred in the Malay Peninsula. A herd of wild elephants attacked a railway station, pulling down the station master's kitchen and bathroom. They did the same to the clerk's quarters and then tackled the station while the office force looked on from trees. One elephant took off an automatic weighing machine as a souvenir of the raid, but finding it heavy threw it down on the track. One of the elephants trumpeted the recall and they all went back into the jungle except one who fell in a well and had to be taken out by human aid, but was not detained. By the time help arrived after a general telegraphic alarm the huge beasts had entirely disappeared.

Cranberry Pie

Two cupfuls cranberries, 1¼ cups sugar, 1 cup raisins, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ cup water. Cut cranberries in halves; mix with raisins, sugar and flour. Line pie plate with pastry; put in cranberry mixture; add the water, and bake in a moderate oven. When the fruit is soft, place a meringue on top and return to the oven until a delicate brown. A double crust may be used instead of the meringue, if desired.

Velvet Ice Cream

Put 1 pint milk in double boiler. When hot add 1 cup sugar and let dissolve. Beat 1 egg until light, and add 2 tablespoonfuls milk in which has been dissolved 2 teaspoons powdered arrowroot. Stir mixture into hot milk and beat with egg beater while cooking for about 15 minutes. Remove from fire and add salt. When cold, add 1 teaspoonful vanilla, and a drop or two of lemon extract. This combination makes a delicate flavor. Add 2 cups milk and strain mixture. Then add 1 cup heavy cream. I use two-quart freezer, as it gives ample room to swell. When freezing, turn slowly at first; then you get that velvety texture.

HER OWN WAY

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN DE WATER.

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

SHE had reached the door, when he stopped quickly to her side and detained her.

"Helen," he said, abruptly, "this is awfully—tremendously—good of you."

"I feel like a brute to accept this money. And yet—well—when I think of—her—I feel"—

He stopped, stammering.

"Yes," Helen supplemented, "you feel that you must accept it. And you are quite right."

A Smiling Benefactress

She looked up at him smilingly, her face alight with the joy of relieving him of a little of the misery he had been suffering.

She was not thinking enough of herself to know how pretty she was at this instant.

"I am glad to be able to help even this little bit," she said, simply.

Suddenly he bent his head, and, before she guessed his intention, he kissed her.

His face was flushed.

"Forgive me!" he begged as she drew back with an ejaculation of displeasure. "I ought not to have done that, perhaps. But you are my cousin—and I am so grateful to you—and it means so much—that your kindness and sweetness took me off my feet—as it were"—

She noted his embarrassment and thought she understood it. After all, he was her cousin, and the money had come to him as such a surprise that it was no wonder his behavior was a little out of the ordinary.

"Never mind!" she said, hastily, going again towards the door. "I understand—and I know you will never do that again."

"No," he said. "I never will."

When she had reached the foot of the stairs, he checked her by speaking her name. He had followed her out into the hall.

"Helen—you still expect to meet me tomorrow afternoon?"

"If you still wish it," she answered.

All at once she hoped he would not wish it.

"I have kept that afternoon for you," he said. "Not," with a shrug of the shoulders, "that I have any other engagements for Sunday. My Sundays as well as other times are dreary at best. It is work and worry all the week, and worry without work all of Sunday.

"But, thanks to you, tomorrow will be a different kind of a day. It must be."

"I hope so," she rejoined. "Promise to try not to worry on that day, won't you? For, you see, things do come out right sometimes, in one way or another."

"I see they do," he admitted.

She glanced back when she reached the top of the first flight of stairs—just as she had glanced back on that evening of her first talk with this cousin of hers in the little reception room.

And, on that occasion, he was standing where she had left him, at the foot of the steps looking up at her.

And now, as then, he kissed his finger-tips to her.

"Forgive me—and think well of me!" he added, dramatically.

She tried to smile at him, but a lump came into her throat.

In her room she snatched her handkerchief from her belt and rubbed hard her cheek where he had kissed it.

The spot seemed to burn. She shuddered as she recalled how his lips had felt against her face.

Not Quite Pleased

"Even if he is my cousin," she muttered, "I shall hate him if he ever does that again. I hated it, and—I have never let any man kiss me before, I suppose," with an angry flash in her eyes, "that Betty would laugh if she knew that. But it is the truth. Which only shows that Betty and I are different, and never could understand each other. Yet—I did not think that she would deceive me so heartlessly. I could stand her doing it—even—but Tom"—

She did not finish the sentence, but shut her lips tightly. Then she sat down to do some mending.

She reflected that for her, as well as for Dan Sloane, it was work and worry on week-days, and worry without work on Sundays. And there was nothing bright anywhere to look forward to.

ADVICE TO LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The Road to Sorrow

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My parents are annoyed since I continue to refuse the proposals of a young man whom they greatly admire. He is respectable and good-living, rather good-looking and holds a nice position. But for many reasons, which to my people are merely trifles, I cannot bear him. To him being clever means knowing the newest slang phrases and loving me apparently to let others hear it, while I abhor slang.

Naturally, I have learned to dislike him so intensely that it is a task for me to try to speak civilly to him. Knowing that I dislike him, my parents will not permit me to have other young men calling upon me, since they insist that I take him. Do you believe that these things I have mentioned are faults that I must overlook? ANNOYED.

THE young man's sense of humor seems to differ from yours. And your critical attitude may drive him to the return attitude of appearing offended rather than let you undervalue him. You have not cited any glaring faults. But that doesn't alter the fact that no girl can be happy with a man who is repellant to her. Since the man annoys you, find out if you're just taking this defensive rather than acknowledge that he really appeals to you. That may be the psychology at the situation. On the other hand you really may loathe him. No parents have a right to force a girl into a match she dislikes.

Work, Is the Answer

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have lost two members of my family recently. The man who truly and ideally loved me met with such misfortune that we had to part when our future looked bright. I will never forget him. I wish you could be kind enough to suggest some way to lessen the despairing loneliness and heartache that make me my life so hard. S. J.

WORK! That's the great cure-all. Find either some form of paid employment or go in for settlement work or some sort of effort which will put you in touch with those who suffer even more terribly than you. There's nothing morbid about you — for strongly enough those who are horribly afflicted often find real joy and beauty in life. But if we go through cruel sufferings and it is cure to chose whether or not we shall rise above them, it isn't easy to do it. Come to a moment, but anyone who actually puts his mind on things outside his own sphere of worries and troubles finds eventually that life is interesting even if it doesn't yield just what we ask.

so discouraged, and had dizzy spells and at my monthly periods I have been almost impossible to keep around at my work. Since my baby was born two years ago my back has been worse. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have found great relief since using it. I keep house and have the care of five children and I am very thankful I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound such a help. I recommend it to any woman suffering as I was before I used it."—Mrs. MAUDE E. TAYLOR, 5 St. James Place, Roxbury, Mass.

Backache is one of the most common symptoms of a displacement or derangement of the female system. No woman should make the mistake of trying to overcome it by heroic endurance, but profit by Mrs. Taylor's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. FORBES

Here are two interesting incidents. I ran into a friend the other day, and, when I asked him how things were going, he replied very cheerfully: "Better than ever." As I knew that he was employed by a copper company and that all salaries had been cut in half, I expressed my surprise.

Then he explained: "I couldn't live on half salary, and the company let us know that it would not object to our taking on some outside work. I figured out that the lumber business appeared to be pretty active, and I hustled around from one lumber concern to another until I was given a chance to try my hand at selling. I've always been very much interested in trees and know a little about lumber. I went out and, between my two jobs, I am making more money than ever before." He added: "I felt it was tough luck when my pay was cut; but it jolted me out of my rut, and I don't know if I'll care to get back to a steady diet of office work again."

* * *

The advertising manager of a large concern found himself with too little to do after the boom burst and advertising was drastically cut down. Without waiting for the axe to fall, he looked around for something else to do part of his time. He has now made a specialty of studying languages, and had thoroughly mastered several. He was engaged by (I think it was) a N. Y. C. firm to give one or two language courses. Next he found occasional commissions as translator for different business concerns doing more or less in the foreign field. Meanwhile, he had applied for a very sharp cut in his salary, but continued to look after the duties. His accomplishments have now become so well known that he is swamped with work and is making far more than his old salary. Hereafter he will do business on his own account, although remaining in an advisory and supervisory capacity for his original company.

* * *

These are only two incidents of a number of similar nature which have come to my attention during recent months. What at first appeared to be a body blow turned out to be a stroke of good fortune. Various men who were content to jog along mechanically, getting nowhere in particular, were rudely shaken out of their lethargy and compelled to better themselves. It may be that they had been suddenly pitched from the deck of a smooth-sailing ship into the sea and had to sink or swim.

Have you not seen similar things happen among business concerns? Then the collapse came, many companies were unable to overcome their difficulties. Some of them descended into bankruptcy. Others, including certain very large organizations, were taken in hand by bankers' committees—as the head of one mammoth organization remarked to me, "one sure way not to get into business is to owe the banks so blamed much that they can't afford to let you fail." Still other concerns managed to grub along in a feeble, wobbly way, losing much money and much business.

* * *

On the other hand, instance after instance has come to life of concerns that heroically set themselves to transforming apparent disaster into profit. They applied intelligence to new angles of attack. They thought out new sources of possible orders. They eagerly faced price readjustment and did not halt heartedly. Instead of shutting off selling steam, they gingered up their selling forces and kept their advertising going at full speed. The results in thus attacking have, in not a few cases, exceeded all expectations.

* * *

One cannot but sympathize deeply with every worthy man and woman who has been thrown out of employment in course of the period of retrenchment and deflation. Only those of us who know from bitter experience what it is to tramp the streets looking for a job can fathom to the full how discouraging and heartbreaking it is to trudge from place to place and meet nothing but rebuffs, and then have to return home with nothing but bad news.

* * *

Also, many thousands of business men have been going through the fires during the last twelve months, and have suffered quite as poignantly as idle workers.

* * *

Yet do not the whole happenings of the recent past emphasize this? Individuals and concerns who have fitted themselves to meet difficulties have been the ones who have been able to save themselves from sinking. Individuals and concerns who managed to jog along while everything was going smoothly, but who neglected to fit themselves to cope with emergencies, have been the ones to suffer most.

This does not imply for a moment that a great many honest, industrious and worthy workers have not found it possible to obtain work or that only poorly-managed business concerns have undergone severe financial hardships.

* * *

The deduction to be drawn is, however, that it does not pay either a worker or an employer to be satisfied to remain mediocre during times when mediocrity is enough to "get by with." When the test comes, mediocrity is mediocrity every time.

Stocks Heavy in New York at Noon; Money 5½%; Foreign Exchange Is Weak

FIRM TONE TO RAILROAD SHARES

Steels and Foreign Oils Are Down; Equipments Recede; Motors and Leathers Up

BY W. H. ROSS.
Financial Editor.

The New York market had a heavy tone at noon and bordered on weakness. But it was stronger than during the first hour. Rails were the firmest classes, reviewing the list as a whole. Foreign oils were off and equipments oils irregular. Steels and equipments were quoted lower, but motors and leathers displayed some strength. Trading was of about the same volume as on Wednesday, first hour transactions aggregating about 150,000. Call money opened at 5½ per cent. Foreign exchange was weak, demand sterling opening half a cent lower at 32.83¾.

MIXED MOVEMENT AT START.

The market had an irregular opening, first fluctuations being very narrow and indicating hesitation as to commitments on the part of most traders. The tendency was downward and within an hour the majority of issues were off to a lower level than at the close on Wednesday. The descent was easy in movement and declines were small, although there were a few stocks to drop a point or more. Mexican Petroleum and Studebaker remained unchanged, seeded the most among leaders. Prices of oils, rails and steels fell. Both Pan-American and Royal Dutch were among issues to show largest declines. Little was done in sugars and coppers up to mid-morning. Houston Oil and Pacific Development were strong stocks.

AWAITED CHICAGO NEWS.

Traders awaited news from Chicago as to developments at the strike conference being conducted by the Labor Board. Around Wall Street action by the government to prevent a railroad strike was looked for as needed. A decisive move by either labor or the Federal authorities is looked for soon and whatever is done is likely to have great stock market influence. In the opinion of many shrewd traders were disinclined to commit themselves far.

In business circles there is more cheerfulness. Hope is expressed that labor troubles will be brought to a speedy end and resumption of work will relieve both employers and wage earners of the uncertainty which is restricting operations by the former and making the latter uneasy. The increasing activity in the steel trade, which is generally regarded as the basic industry, is giving encouragement.

The present firmness of the call rate will be temporary, bankers think. Government withdrawals of funds are relatively small, amounting to but $3,500,000 for New York and $822,000 for the week. Treasury cash holdings will total $16,000,000 in New York and $425,000,000 locally. It is reported that the high call rate is affecting contracting interior funds to New York. After November payments and securities are provided for an easier money market will be warranted. Betterment should be observed within a week.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Oct. 27.—The cotton market was under further selling pressure early today. After the usual offerings increased prices sold about 18 points net lower. The unsettled railroad labor situation, weak cables and Wall Street and New Orleans selling caused most of the offerings. Some buying was for Japanese and trade account. At 10:30 o'clock prices were 15 to 18 points net lower. It is helpful to know that following prices were: December 18.70; January 18.45; March 18.20; May 17.95; July 17.52; September 17.00.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Wheat opened unchanged to ¾ cent lower. Corn was ¼ cent to ¾ cent lower, and oats were ¼ cent lower. Opening prices were: Wheat, December, 1.04½ to 1.05; May, 1.11¾ to 1.12; Corn, December, 45¾ to 46; May, 50 to 50¼; December, 43¾ to 43¾; May, 48 to 48¼.

OIL IS DRIVING COAL OUT OF NEW ORLEANS

Spillane Digs Up Interesting Statistics of Modern Methods in Crescent City

BY RICHARD SPILLANE.

On the Road, Oct. 27.—Oil has been substituted for coal in New Orleans to a remarkable degree in all industrial establishments and by vessels.

The largest dealer in coal in Louisiana gave the writer a copy of a letter he wrote to W. J. Mitchell, vice-president of the Canal-Commercial Trust & Savings Bank, on this subject. Here it is in part:

"Steam coal for land users, including tonnage consigned to New Orleans by two railroads lifting West prior to about three years ago, was approximately 1,000,000 tons annually. This went rapidly and still about eighteen months ago, when about 75 per cent of the steam coal had been replaced by oil as fuel.

USE ON STEAMSHIPS.

"Steam coal for steamship bunkers including export shipments, prior to about two years ago, amounted to approximately 750,000 tons annually.

"Substantially, the same volume was handled during 1919. This fell approximated about 1,000,000 tons during 1920, and fell back during 1921, if deliveries the first half of the year are maintained, to about 750,000 tons, though possibly not to that down to 600,000 tons.

"While there has been enormous increase in use of oil as fuel by steamships, the increase in shipping is not sufficient to maintain and for a while increase the tonnage of coal required.

"Vessels entering this port for the last twelve months represented an increase in coal burners and oil burners about 60 to 65 per cent, coal and 35 to 40 per cent. oil. For the last sixty to ninety days, and right now, this percentage would show an increase somewhat in percentage favor of oil burners, owing to the abnormally low price of oil, whereas the price of coal has not dropped a great deal, owing to wage and transportation costs.

MUST BE LIMIT.

"The writer does not believe economic and other conditions are such as to tend, on the whole, to much further replacement of oil for coal, although he realizes, because of New Orleans' nearness to producing fields —domestic and foreign—and extensive development of oil refineries, oil depots and oil loading facilities, that use of oil as fuel at New Orleans will be large for quite some time to come."

Traffic in one of the principal thoroughfares of New Orleans was held up while a procession passed by. The procession was rather long and was made up wholly of motor cars, in which robust gentlemen, all dressed up and wearing large badges on their breasts, were riding. They were delegates to the national convention of horse shoers held in the crescent city.

Apparently the delegates did not like the idea of purchasing and not parading in automobiles, the vehicles that have put the kibosh on the horseshoers.

MULE HAD TO GO.

Speaking of horseshoes, the electric truck has displaced the mule to a large degree on the wharves of New Orleans.

The levee isn't what it used to be. Mechanical freight-handling apparatus has been introduced to a degree that is discouraging to a person who found pleasure in listening to the darky dock-walloper addressing a team of mules in the only language a mule understands.

But for the old-time river packet the picturesque levee of the Crescent front would be gone. The packet has come back in great style. It is doing a very fine business. It goes into all the canals and bayous of the lower Mississippi valley, going into the city and brings to market cargoes of crabs and oysters, sugar in cane and refined form, fruits and varieties and fruit of many kinds. Each railroad entering the city has turned traffic to the waterways in great volume.

A new style packet also has appeared. It has a gasoline "kicker" with which it navigates the bayous. Some of these vessels are of catamaran type and are of such shallow draft that waterside people say they need little more than a heavy mist in which to navigate.

WALL ST. GOSSIP

By MONITOR

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Trading in Stocks was in somewhat less in volume compared with Thursday and the action of the market indicated that the technical position had been weakened by recent covering. At any rate buying was less urgent and selling had more effect on prices. The low-priced oils were still vigorously bought, but there was evidence of heavy offerings of stock elsewhere throughout the list. Rails, in particular, showed a tendency toward easing, although there is not a strong belief that the strike will take place.

As a matter of fact, the outstanding feature of strength in the market were furnished by the specialties, among which were Coca Cola and Endicott Johnson. Woolworth also made a gain of more than two points. Among the best showing was made by Royal Dutch. Altogether the market indicated plainly the activity of professionals, many of whom either were taking profits or turning to the short side.

Aside from news ticker items, nothing further was heard about the proposal of deferring the German reparations payments. One of these items mentioned well-informed bankers as authorities for the assertion that Germany's cash payments not only could be deferred until February, but that aside from payment in material there might be no further reparations payments for several years to come.

United States steel and other steel shares responded only moderately to the relatively favorable statement of the Steel Corporation, according to the iron Age the steel industry is looking forward to a reduction in freight rates and that expectation has been responsible for the withholding of some business that otherwise might have been put through.

Under cover of the strength in the low priced domestic oil stocks there was a large volume of profit taking sales elsewhere. This was true particularly in the railroad group, which refused to respond at any time to strength in other parts of the list. Traders attached more significance to these conditions than did houses which have been active in inaugurating and encouraging the recent movement advance in prices. These firms still are committed to the constructive side of securities prices.

It was reported that the Durant interests have placed a broker with the Continental Motors Company of Detroit having an aggregate value of $21,000,000. Another minor activities of the motor industry it is believed Mr. Durant and his associates presently will announce organization of another motor corporation and it is understood the initial release for this new undertaking have been met.

As between Missouri Pacific preferred and St. Paul preferred stabilization in some large offices they advising the purchase of the former. The buying of that security of stock recently has been of excellent quality, but from the statistical standpoint it is believed that Missouri Pacific preferred will be passed on a dividend basis before St. Paul preferred. Some houses which have been recommending the stock suggest that payments will be resumed by next Spring.

Union oil was one of the aggressively strong domestic oil stocks and advanced to a new high for the present movement. There is excellent reason to believe that negotiations with the Royal Dutch Company have been concluded whereby 76 per cent. of the Union Oil will be acquired by the foreign company. This carries a large holding in Union Oil of Calif.

There are reports in the sugar trade of a new corporation to be formed which is also at work on the Sugar Refining Company. It is understood that several of the large independent owners of producing properties in Cuba have held conferences looking to this end, although it probably will be several months before the details have been completed.

Coca cola was one of the strong specialties of the day's market. Recently a semi-annual dividend of $2.50 per share was declared, and Wednesday's gossip had it that the last of the high-priced sugar bought by the company would be used this month, thereby paving the way for a renewal of the regular $10 common stock. Directors are expected to meet within the next few weeks, and it is understood that the regular dividends will be discussed seriously at that time.

The report that an American consul had been stabbed at the consulate at Mexico City brought some hurried selling into Mexican Petroleum. The announced failure of the negotiations for a loan to that country has had a damper on the speculative enthusiasm.

RUSSIA HOLDING WORLD BACK, SAYS EVANS

Recently-Returned Expert Quoted to Show Awful Condition of Red Republic

BY C. B. EVANS

Chicago, Oct. 27.—The long line of eminent statesmen now coming to this country suggests an advance guard of militant people seeking a home beyond the European graveyard, but rather do they visit us because of our unique national situation, we are regarded as a means of rescue from the rest of the world.

May it be that they will obtain what they need, for the Eastern hemisphere is not so badly off as it was immediately after the armistice, but many are.

Two utterances in this city, a talk by Charles R. Crane to certain friends about Russia and the address of Reginald McKenna before the Commercial Club, precipitate the thought of our relations to other countries, including our commerce, in a way that should force the attention of all. Mr. Charles R. Crane is one of the best authorities on Russian affairs in the world. He has visited that country no less than three times and has lived there for long periods. A brief interview with him in which he sets forth the fact that the present condition of Russia is "infinitely worse than the imperial regime, even of the days of Ivan the Terrible."

RUSSIA IS HOPELESS.

Even it may be said that his private statements draw a still darker picture, the condition of the people of that country must indeed be horrible. It is not a mere "despotism tempered by assassination." He declares that it is impossible for Russia to recover itself—rehabilitation must come from the outside.

That being the case, McKenna's address complements Crane's disclosures. There can be no rescue of the Russians by other nations as long as the present International war debts rest upon the finances of the world, and it was to champion the cancellation of all war debts between nations that McKenna spoke in this city.

Only words were out of the way. Western Europe and the United States would be in a position to depend on the government that a condition intolerable for the rest of the world exists and that they would not permit it to go on indefinitely. It is indeed already at war against all these governments. Russia is contributing more to the misery and suffering of mankind in a political way than all the nations put together.

APPLICATION TO U. S.

An application was made by a Chicago banker of this report from Russia. He is not alone in his views in the United States. He wondered how trade and manufacture could revive very much while the world is in such a condition and elsewhere in the world confronting it.

As an illustration of a small part of the case he declared that Russia could not buy the products of the Western Europe, and the United States would therefore be restricted in their purchases of raw material from us. Our exports to Russia in normal times are not a large amount total, but the figures do not cover all material has been shipped from the United States to Western Europe and there converted into finished articles for sale to the Muscovite.

Those who are in the habit of scoffing at our foreign commerce because it is "so small" compared with our entire business, would do well to think of the great portion of our cotton products which goes abroad not to mention hundreds of other articles, and also recur to our pre-war annual balance of trade in manufactured articles on an increasingly liberal scale.

EFFECTS OF ISOLATION.

It would be in order to think of the sharp reduction in prices and consequently the wages that would follow and of the practical compression of comforts for ourselves, making us more "aloof" than we had such a stain of things following the impoverishment of the rest of the world by the war have panic results that it is not pleasant to contemplate.

Those who are in favor of removing the suggestion so often made that these international debts be sponged off would do well to see the question both sides. But also there are expedients on both sides. Many an intelligent person who has never had to experience a sense of relief if that action were taken. At least the situation would be relieved somewhat. There is plenty of commercial intelligence to deal with these international obligations and plenty of distribution will be caused by them.

The world never had a financial problem comparable with it, and what wonder if a little later, if all parties to it should not be found at fault for their means and their intelligence. If these debts were out of the way, the reconstruction of the business horror might prove to be a comparatively simple matter.

What about the Oil Industry?

When can the next oil boom be expected?

Is this the time to buy oil stocks? Or should consumments be postponed?

These questions are answered in a circular to be issued promptly for free distribution to those interested.

PELLETIER ASKS MAYOR'S AID FOR WOMEN

Urges Peters to Provide More Registration Places Nearer Homes

The following letter was sent to Mayor Peters by District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier:

"Your honor believes in woman suffrage.

"I want to call your attention to an appalling situation in Boston today relating to this matter, namely, the tremendous inconvenience women are under in their desire to register.

"I am well aware that they can go to city hall; but for the mothers, the wives, the housekeepers of Brighton, South Boston, East Boston, Jamaica Plain and Charlestown to come to Boston city hall, and perhaps wait in line for hours, is highly unreasonable to expect.

TIME IS LIMITED.

"Many women are engaged in occupations far from city hall, and many in the city have only lunch time in which to attend to such a matter. This situation does not permit of their waiting in line at the office of the election commissioners.

"I am informed that women of Mattapan have to go to Codman square for night registration at the expense of a fifteen-cent carfare; and conditions are no better in certain other sections of the city. Even those going a long distance, after waiting in line for hours are sometimes sent away at the hour of closing without having been able to register.

RIGHT TO VOTE.

"The election commissioners say they have no money for additional help and that they are averse to designating extra places for registration. But the right to vote and the privilege of voting are our dearest heritage. To the woman just permitted this right should be given every proper facility."

"Now then, may I suggest that Your Honor call a special meeting of the City Council to appropriate the necessary funds with which to open additional registration quarters, with the adequate additional clerks, and that the election commissioners be ordered at once to make any further provisions for the registration of our citizens, including of course both women and men, that may be necessary.

FREE OFFER OF QUARTERS.

"Or, in the event of Your Honor finding this to be impossible, that the election commissioners be instructed to accept the free offer of quarters for such registration throughout the city and direct their clerks to attend such places at the expense of private organizations or persons who shall deposit the necessary moneys as directed.

"If the City Council will not vote the necessary funds for extra help or clerks, they will be furnished as above suggested.

"I think we could get many women and many men, including lawyers, to be sworn in as clerks to do this registration, if there is a will in the department are not sufficient in number or are unwilling to work extra hours for extra compensation. I am positive women and men of sufficient intelligence can be found to do the work under oath, according to law.

"May I ask Your Honor to give this matter your immediate attention and to announce upon the election through the press, in order that the unregistered women and men of the city may know what they have to expect in the way of registration accommodations."

Needless Fuss Over Message of De Valera to the Pope

Obviously No Offence Was Meant to King George Personally, "Crown" Meaning Nation as a Whole

We are at loss to understand why so much fuss is made in British quarters concerning the message of President De Valera of the Irish Republic to Pope Benedict.

We quote the message so that it may be fresh in the minds of our readers:

The people of Ireland are confident that the ambiguities in the reply sent in the name of King George will not mislead you into believing that the troubles are in Ireland or that the people of Ireland owe allegiance to the British King.

The independence of Ireland has been formally proclaimed by the regularly elected representatives of the people of Ireland and ratified by subsequent plebiscites. The troubles between Ireland and Great Britain have their source in the fact that the rulers of Great Britain have sought to impose their will upon Ireland and by brute force rob the Irish people of their liberty.

Can you see anything in this that was offensive to King George? And who is King George, but a fiction representing Great Britain? The personality of the King of England has been ignored for the last three or four hundred years. He has been a mythical King. Several generations ago, when the King had more power than he has today, one of the British Kings crept up into the private suite of a Prime Minister and threatened to commit suicide unless the Prime Minister would give him the consent to marry the woman of his choice. That permission was refused, and the King beat his head against the corner of a piece of furniture.

The statement by President De Valera, that the people of Ireland owe no allegiance to the British King, therefore, could not be offensive to the person of George Guelph, called King of England. Obviously, Mr. De Valera meant no offence against this amiable gentleman, who very probably does sympathize with the suffering people of Ireland. He referred to the British King in this message in the constitutional sense of the term. He meant the British Crown, and the British Crown doesn't stand for the personality of the British King, but stands for Great Britain itself. When you refer to the Crown you mean the nation.

There is nothing else in the statement that Mr. De Valera hasn't repeated over and over and over again, and which has not been an issue in the entire fighting. Mr. De Valera evidently had been informed that the old British intrigue at Rome was going on, and he wished to give the Pope the facts. We see nothing in the message to disturb the most sensitive Britisher, unless that Britisher wants to be disturbed and wants some excuse for breaking off the peace conference.

Putting "Teeth" Into a Law

If Dentistry Is Attempted, Care Should Be Taken to Place the Molars on Both Sides of the Jaw

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

There is talk in Washington of putting "teeth" into the Esch-Cummins railroad law.

It evidently needs amendment.

But if surgical dentistry is to be practiced on this statute care should be taken to place the molars on both sides of the jaw.

It will not do to say that men who work on the railroads must obey the law while men who manage the railroads are left free to flout it.

It does not seem possible that, without a constitutional amendment, a law can be made effective to deny to railway workers who wish for any reason to retire from employment the right to do so.

But if the public interest should be thought to require the attempt to outlaw strikes, then certainly the converse of this proposition should also be enacted—namely, railway managements should be required equally to respect the rulings of the Labor Board.

A good deal could be said in favor of even-handed regulation of transportation from the sole standpoint of the public welfare, convenience and necessity.

This would imply rates that the traffic could bear, wages and working conditions favorable to an American standard of living, and within these limits an open field for management by efficiency to earn a fair return on capital investment.

But it is a long way from this to what we see in the existing crisis.

Today the rates are so high that they prevent traffic, management is contumacious of law and bent on destroying the morale of labor, and the workers threaten strike because they lack confidence in a peaceful solution which will not assess upon them the entire cost of deflation.

The Power in an Atom

Perhaps Science Will Soon Harness This Force for Use

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

In a thimbleful of air there are, scientists tell us, something like thirty thousand million atoms, each atom containing the potential power of one thousand horses.

Please do not ask us to explain why within an atom—a thing so small that if you had a million of them clustered together you probably couldn't see them with a microscope—there should be latent the power of a thousand horses. We don't know; and it is our guess that the scientists don't know, either.

For that matter, why should the freezing of a drop of water in the heart of a giant boulder exert force sufficient to rend the great rock if it did not otherwise yield to the water's expansion?

Nobody has ever seen a great rock thus split asunder. Nobody has measured a thousand horsepower in an atom.

When science can unlock this hidden atomic power and harness it to human use, we shall not need to worry longer about the high price of coal. Power will be the most plentiful thing on earth.

What Do They Expect to Get?

Number of Professed Republicans in Race for Mayoralty Is Increasing

The increase in the number of men professing to be Republicans who are announcing their candidacy for Mayor as Republicans is interesting.

It is difficult to understand what they can expect to get out of their candidacy in face of the fact that the Republican organization refuses to present or to go behind a candidate, in face of the fact that the Republican party is responsible for the present city charter which forbids party lines in the city, in face of the fact that the next election will be between John E. Murphy, Joseph C. Pelletier and James M. Curley, and that the people of Boston are never known to throw away their votes.

"Something Sure to Queer It"

U. S. Artists in Paris

PARIS, Oct. 27.—A plague of squirrels is threatened in the Latin Quarter of Paris because of an oversupply of their favorite food, say American residents of the Quarter.

According to those who came to Paris for the purpose of serious study, lack of their customary liquid inspiration has driven almost the entire population of Greenwich Village to the left bank of the Seine.

In a little cafe called the Camelson on Boulevard Montparnasse, a collection of so-called "freaks" of all nationalities may be seen every evening deeply discussing the most radical subject dealing with modern music, art and literature. At first glance the most striking thing is that the crowd is composed entirely of long-haired men and short-haired women.

French poets of the most modern type held forth on Monday evenings and read each other their productions of the week, which are invariably in the freest of free verse.

The women, mostly American girls from Greenwich Village, who claim to be studying art, dress in a way which causes the French residents of the quarter to throw up their hands in horror. "Mon Dieu! Is that the American fashion?"

Smiles

A MISPLACED QUERY

When the agitation for women's suffrage was at its height, a well-known university professor who took much interest in it, was persuaded to carry a banner in a parade. His wife observed him marching along with a very dejected air and carrying his banner so that it hung limply. Later on she reproved him for it. "Why didn't you march like somebody," she said, "and let people see your banner?" "My dear," he replied meekly, "did you see what was on the banner? It read, 'Any man can vote. Why can't I?'"

BE WHAT YOU MIGHT HAVE BEEN—OR MORE

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

YOU can always be what you might have been—or better.

Surely, there is no gain—beyond the dismal joy of self-pity—in repeating the familiar refrain of the saddest words of tongue or pen.

Leave it to the croaking raven—the faithless cry of Nevermore! Therefore, you are Human and en route to the Divine; namely, never to know defeat, save by default, or by choice and at your own hands!

It is foolish even now to absolve yourself from effort by the despairing protest that it is too late. If you are sour and sixty, then, of course, it is too late to be sweet sixteen.

Ever then, only the younger years are beyond you, but the sweetness of spirit is still yours—if you seek it and make it!

Always Can Learn

It is never too late to learn or to be—whatever may hold true of doing things to achieve a useless position or to gain a futile power in the artificial order of human relations, which we call Society or Civilization.

If you are really or nearly a dauntless soul, then age or any other seeming handicap cannot prevent the attainment even of ambition. But then you would not be singing the self-consoling song of Might Have Been!

Here is a preventive to protect you against desperation and against the dry-rot of self-sympathy. Whenever you find that you are inclined to make excuses for yourself, because you are not what you could have been, then—instead of looking backwards on your defects and your debits—look inward at your personal ledger and count up the credits of power always available to be what you can be.

Probably what thus you still may be is better and more worthwhile than what you might have been.

Be assured of this: that always it is possible to be more than you are! You can be a more Significant Personality and a more useful person—by heeding the summons of your self-respect and following the forward call of your spirit.

Why sigh for What-Is-Not when What-Is is sufficient, if wisely used, to crown your life with glory and to set your soul a-singing?

Besides, how do you know that you might actually have been or done this, that, or the other thing? And in what star is it written that you should have been or done the thing which you feel that you have missed and must everlastingly regret?

Each of us is such a bundle of possibilities, and the ingredients of our personality could imaginably have entered into such a variety of achievements that it is easy to think and to say that you might have been a great artist or singer or writer or lawyer or business man or what not, if—the Fates had not been unkind!

Intelligent Sympathy

Perhaps you could—and perhaps you couldn't! But it is well for us to make these varied might-have-beens of our imagination the bases of intelligent sympathy with the performances and the ambitions of those who are actually doing what we think we might have done.

On our intelligent sympathy with their achievements and their dreams the artists, singers, writers and other doers depend for their success even more than on our material reward of their efforts.

In other words, instead of being embittered with the sense of your own "failure" because you have not fully attained, you may find a sweet satisfaction in the fine performance of those who have struggled and, in a sense, have "arrived."

This is democratic sharing in the joy of aristocratic attainment.

And as for you—since no destiny assigns you to one kind of activity more than to another—perhaps you would better take account of stock again, as a means to discovering what you really can be even NOW.

A lonely thatched cottage can more readily be made and kept a happy home than the gorgeous palace of the too-successful.

And, in the economy of nature, a humble, busy honey bee is even more worthwhile than a magnificent, roaring lion!

Women Police in London

LONDON, Oct. 27—London has a woman police force numbering 100 rank and file and thirteen officers. They have no real power or authority, and they cost nearly $150,000 a year.

The work of the patrols—who are to be distinguished from those doing administrative and more general work at police stations—is mainly concerned with women of a certain type in the more notorious quarters of London, and consist very largely of endeavors of crime prevention.

The women police, if effect, act as liaison officers between the general police and the outside organizations that run rescue homes and other reclaiming agencies. This work has for years been efficiently carried on by voluntary and unofficial bodies, and although the women police claim that their preventive work is increasing in scope and effectiveness, the fact remains that the work which has been done voluntarily for years now costs the ratepayers $150,000 a year because it is done officially by the women police.

The patrols have no power of arrest. If a complaint is made they caution and watch the supposed offender and refer the complaint to a male constable, who, if necessary, makes the arrest. A woman patrol and a policeman, therefore, now do the work which the policeman alone has hitherto done.

CONFLICTING NATURES IN EVERY MAN

By Winifred Black

THE old horse dealer was undergoing cross-examination by his grandchildren. He has long since given up his business as the motors have crowded out the horse in most activities—but the children love to hear him tell of his adventures when he was in the stirring world, and he likes to be the centre of attraction where the children are concerned, and specially when he can talk about horses.

On a day in Summer, while the children climbed upon his chair and asked him for stories, Fred—who sat on the steps of the porch near grandfather's chair—asked the question which brought up the assembly all standing.

"Grandfather," said he, "did you ever make out a horse better than he was just to sell him?"

Fred had just been a listening delegate at a meeting of young men in a garage, and had heard of the jockeying of used automobiles in aid of their sale. As the argument in the garage had grown warmer, Jack, the young son of the house, had said with great emphasis that the automobile pretenses were nothing compared with the old-time practise when horse dealing and horse trading were part of every man's experience. Then followed tales of certain horse trades of which the fathers could tell and did tell, it seems, and Fred listened with all his ears.

The Eternal Argument

Now had come the time to elicit a few facts from Grandfather, who was known not only to be the prince of horse dealers in his time, but also the prince of good fellows and the king of all the grandfathers.

Now I am not going to detail the remainder of the trial of Grandfather, before the row of eyes, brown, gray and blue, which searched his very soul when Fred sprung upon him the question I have just quoted. Aunt Serena was in her rocking chair out under the maple tree and heard the whole affair. The children soon were satisfied that all was well and always had been well with Grandfather's soul, and that horse trading, as it used to be, was a most upright and unchallenged calling.

What interested Aunt Serena was the new proof that in every-one there exists a dual nature, one knowing the good, the other the bad—one life often showing both qualities so plainly that onlookers do not know "where to place them."

And what an advocate every-one was in himself.

Listening to almost any simple or complex story of every day, how often we hear the words, "Just what I said," "I told you so," and "I have always said so."

It seems there is ever an argument going on between those two natures within, and sometimes one, sometimes the other, gets the advantage. But always the remark or boast can be made, that the whole individual was right in his predictions, either way. Grandfather had this advocate and he presented the ideal, without doubt, when he was telling about the sale of Truthful James, the roan horse, away back in the eighties.

Aunt Serena said she could tell that there had been some mighty contest about this sale in the old days, but whatever it was all about, Grandfather made out that he personally was without guile, although he was the one who initiated and closed the sale of the horse, which immediately after he was sold had the bad grace to go lame.

You Always Know Right

"Of course you couldn't be blamed for that!" said Fred, and all the children said the same.

Grandfather went into luncheon feeling a trifle better than usual.

"Two souls, alas, in this my breast are dwelling," quoted Aunt Serena, for she well knew that there was another side to the sale of Truthful James.

When the good aunt put the children to bed that night, she advised them always to listen to the voice within, which counsels plainly which is right, not attending to that other voice which seems to point the other way and to have excellent reasons to offer for the course advised.

"You always know what is right when it comes to plain matters of right and wrong," said Aunt Serena.

Another Chance

"Here, boy," said the wealthy motorist, "I want some gas, and please get a move on! You will never get anywhere in the world unless you have push. Push is essential. When I was young I pushed, and that was what got me where I am."

"Well, guv'nor," said the boy, "I reckon you'll have to push again, 'cause we ain't got a drop of gas in the place."

ATTACK MT. EVEREST FROM THE NORTH

By Colonel Howard Bury,

Leader of Mt. Everest Expedition.

KHARTA, Tibet, Oct. 2 (via Simla, India, Oct. 20).—The following day the Alpine climbers ascended to the north Col from the camp in two and one-half hours, taking with them three unladen coolies. Though sometimes the route was exceedingly steep, yet it proved quite practicable. On reaching the Col, about 23,000 feet, they met whirlwinds of suffocating snow and the iciest of northwesterly gales. Above them the whole side of Mount Everest was smoking with snow that was being blown off.

In such a bitter wind and also at such a great height it was impossible to survive for many hours, and though the slopes of Mount Everest above appeared quite passable, the climbers reluctantly were compelled to return, intending to make another attempt the following day. But on the next day the northwesterly gale continued with unabated force and, as there was no earthly use in ascending under those conditions, they returned to the 23,000 feet camp only managing to cross the windy pass with the greatest difficulty.

Warm Clothing

The coolies were well supplied with blankets and warm clothing. They had all kinds of comforters and elderdown sleeping bags, holding four to five men, for those remaining at the highest camps. Therefore they worked most willingly all the time and to the best of their ability. I am glad to say that no case of sickness or frostbite occurred among them. On the following day the gale continued and the climbers moved down to the lower camp (no further attempt to explore the route to the summit being possible), while Wollaston, Wheeler and myself with fifteen coolies, crossed over the 20,300 feet snow pass just opposite and leading to the head of Kama Valley.

It was a steep, rocky descent to the far side of the pass and we were forced to let down the laden coolies one by one on a rope, an operation taking considerable time, but luckily they were sheltered from the gale. Then, there was only an easy glacier to cross and a pleasant walk to Pethang Ringmo, 16,500 feet, where in the Summer time the yaks come for grazing.

The next day, September 27, was one of those perfect autumnal days, cloudless and with the clearest of atmospheres. Wollaston botanized much and photographed the wonderful scenery; Wheeler was busy with a photographic survey and I took the opportunity to go off with two coolies and managed to reach a point in the ridge between Makalu and Mt. Everest, about 21,500 feet high, whence one can look down on a snow range of ice packs southward, and a great valley sweeping round to the south of Makalu.

Cliffs of Granite

Immediately to our left towered up Makalu's great cliffs of white granite, so steep as to be snow free. It is a most imposing and marvelous mountain looking incredibly thin, so perpendicular are its sides. From this viewpoint Mt. Everest did not look so fine, but its southern slopes appeared very steep, offering no means of access on that side.

Soon after the one perfect day the weather changed again to sleet and snow. During the next three days we descended Kama valley and arrived back at Kharta on September 30. The harvest there was now in full swing, all the crops above 13,900 feet being already gathered.

The Autumn tints on the hillsides were very beautiful, from scarlet and crimson of the mountain ash and berberis to the orange and gold of the birches and willows contrasting powerfully with the shiny dark green of rhododendrons.

The next few days will be spent in developing the many photographs taken in the last three weeks, sorting out and packing up all our various stores and bidding farewell to the Jongpen and people of this valley who have been so hospitable in giving us every assistance in their power.

Incentive and Performance

Critics are complaining that no real literature is being produced in this country. They seem to consider it useless, however, to try to explain why literature should be produced.
